SOUND OFF!

By Cpl. Jack O'Keefe

Letter dated Nov. 11, 1942 followed Drillmaster Cpl. Bill Swift from Lawrence, Mass. to San Francisco to Guadalcanal (where he was wounded) to New Zealand, San Francisco, Battle Creek and finally to Greensboro. APO here caught up with the Cpl. before he could move on again...Pvt. Roger Austin has been paying off $1 a month for 3 years on a luxurious bedroom suite. Yesterday he was formally notified by the furniture company that hurrah hurrah he owned the outfit outright. And now he's sleeping on the second story of a G.I. two-decker. As Jimmy Durante would say, "It's mortifyingin'".

PFC William Jennings Bryan Jr., a horse fancier from the Kentucky Blue Grass, suh, would like to get his hands on one of those forms labeled "QM 400" that being the one you fill out if you want to requisition a horse. Just thought you'd like to know in case you have trouble getting a taxicab.

Cpl. Thomas Evans of Service Records and kid brother Harry, newly arrived trainees with 1186 having difficulty getting together. Cpl. works nights. Harry on the other hand works ALL the time...In their first baseball game since arriving here, Squadron E of 1179 defeated Squadron C. Score 18-9. Practically a shutout, eh boys?

The 1179th has a team of professional tumblers on their roster...They should come in handy teaching new men how to climb aboard one of those upper berth without knocking their brains out against the ceiling...Pvt. Vincent Paradis wants to know how to go about getting the Turkish towel concession at the Motor Pool...S/Sgt. James C. Norman, sheperding all the "paderewskis" of 1186 over to the local tonorial parlor for a shearing.

Most awe-inspiring appetite on the post belongs to "Tarzan" Caferro, the G.I. gendarme whose favorite hors d'oeuvre is a steak sprinkled with pork chops...Educated fingers of Pvt. Elmer Bernstein, N.Y. concert pianist, manicuring the lawn outside Bks. 464. As a reward for building the first set of book cases, the 1183rd received a full set of the works of Balzac bound in Moroccan leather.
