- Removal of hyphen in logo

After using the logo I realized that people quickly adapt to saying the name and that the hyphen, while helpful at the very first, is quickly made unnecessary. The logo works better without it.

- Non-profit status update

Our application has been sent in and received. It was then sent to Kentucky for review.

- Guilford Non-profit Consortium

I attended the reception for this group. I had heard about it from Tara the Community Foundation. We may want to consider joining as a way of integrating into the larger community.

- NC Non-profit Center

I joined this with the hope of it helping me with our non-profit application process. It wasn't helpful in that manner. Much of their information is geared toward "staffed" non-profits. The cost was $60. www.ncnonprofits.org The following are our confidential codes.

- Eletter services

I have explored two services so far. I am having difficulty getting the eletter to look the way we want in their HTML formats. I created the format in Word but both Word and Front Page use a variation of the HTML coding that doesn't translate well to their templates. Prices run from 15-30 per month.

- Banking

Set up with BB&T. Need signatures.
