the dorm is primitive tonight with noises, the call and shriek of the native psycphone rocking wild in its cradle ringing red against the feet of the bare stampede down the dark throat of halls 2.
*a boy and a girl in a library making foot-notes of one another's looks . . .

he loves her purple sweater and her short fingernails and the little crook in the nose she broke at four* 3.
*voices tinkle on faint dishes, silver talks.
a girl in a striped jumper whispers low that she will soon be leaving. her friends jerk their heads in sympathy

then bend their faces toward a plate where only their
4.
*two girls coming back from a college weekend giggle rain away

up the sidewalk they go towards the dorm on the feet of chuckles*

5.
students playing bridge . . . the scarf of a girl is strangely red; she reads the fortune of her hand, slaps aces on the blue pile of carpet, flips cards against the dark of a gypsy night where amber thoughts of rings flash jewels

6.
beyond the laundry hulking in a basement, beyond the cinder-truth of waiting wall blocks, beyond scholastic anchors beyond the date, the taking of a beer and pretzel, beyond the smiling cockroach who greets you in a closet, beyond the someone else you thought a friend somewhere beyond a fish bowl window and stars that snap at you uncaring the conjugation of the self steps down into the you, I, me, he of wisdom on lonely nights alive with cigarettes and cups indifferent with black coffee we curl in study to pantomime answers to supposed questions and wait for the morning reality of the blue book.

night stretches, yawns into the window, sucks the 3 o'clock wheels of the mail truck into its vacuum

somewhere a toilet coughs into the stillness of empty halls, and fades away again, a nocturnal reminder that life goes on thought jerks electric on a page filled with blue lines where students poise their pens at the edge of exams.

the message on the board sprouts linear and sterile—"If you want your grades early leave a postcard"

Graduation
1968 the zoo of the freshman mixer is alive with noise—the chatter and aping of the chimpanzee, the clank of the cage, the wire mesh of the sheltered face, the growl of the keeper—all are here in the snow of innocence, in the hungry jaws of the predator, in the blood-red alarm of the waiting and the denouement—the bitten cup, the straw bended into shapes, the tortured kleenex, tell a story, plot an epic on the grounds of the campus littered with trash and left-over laughter.

*the shadow lengthens and falls, darts between lines, between bars of sunlight and stripes chalked on asphalt. evening pokes its nose into the sky . . .
the sinews of a racket twist and tighten, contort in the muscle of an afternoon held taut and fighting, flexed against night.*

the mane of the red-white-blue wrinkles in the wind, in the meadow where outstretched hands seek answers from fences, from students holding squares of star-spangled questions.

*Is the photograph the man, the man a print searching for a frame?
Or is truth the spiral of a smoke ring circling on the air, the zero of conviction, the smoke of fact?*

pencils and people waiting in a line umbrellas mushrooming where clouds frown black on people waiting in a line—even the rain on campus waits in a line the beauty of formation blossoms, expands in the orifice of a kiln; linear tongues shaped from stone lap out at the shore-edges of the sky dangling, like a promised cookie, over the jaws of the giant oven pencils and people still waiting in a line . . . for a prescription that says people who wait in line may eat three meals a day, officially, without harm; meanwhile hunger, too, waits in line steel girders stretch ribs into the air, push sky up and over with a horizontal beam, with a snap of blue-metal fingers clicking commands.

clay kilns and steel girders must sometimes chuckle together over people who expire in lines, waiting for permission slips to breathe.

*T'is not food, nor was meant to be—the substitute potato, the potpourri of week-old string beans tossed with last year's corn onto a salad table where, forlorn, it wilts and sulks upon a hostile tray.
O t'is not fair, this mockery, this play with people's gallstones, this endless fray.
O pray DE—liver us if this must be—this shoe of sole posing as a piece of meat, this laggard leather propped up on a plate that still somehow has energy to dissipate the juices of the palate, the GRAVE mistake.*

*O peanut butter! What awful fate retains you from serving mankind better, as a household glue?
Who severs teeth from gums and seals the lips of those who, strangely silent, would give tips?
O bread! O salad! O succulent tomato!
Do not believe that this has been a slap to Slater.
T'is all a joke, and so a joke, you see,
Must be treated, always, jokingly.*

the acrostic of the lonely stare spells meaning down a face full of poems

full of orphan thoughts that fly towards need like the eyes of old furniture up for sale

2.
the yolk of thought lies just beneath the egg-white, the egg-white—just beneath the shell . . .

*it is so simple
when it unravels, when you take apart what you've spent a lifetime putting together*

3.
the camera-box of the mind closes an eye shutters an eyelash clicks no more

the inside vision rattles dark against walls rolls lonely down the mind like a misplaced marble in a neon billboard lit with paved imagination, couples loom electric in a kiss; the mermaid of hope seduces black, snips checkered dreams off soft rugs of blue.

smoke gnarls blue around faces, knots around chairs, tiled ceiling tiles, in coffeehouses shadows track graze long legs, together rub low notes against the grain of night.

someone in a grey suit, through rain, back to the flatness of a compass set like a paper house on stilts, and the paper moon.

*In sub-zero weather they go like Greeks . . . : tunic-ed, tucked into a white formula of gym-suit Winding their way down clean-slate sidewalks to knee-bends, fox trots, punctuated small-talk between balls and bats.
 From September to June they crowd on black tennis courts, like gnats with rackets for wings,

 To a background of music, modern dance majors retreat into prenatal positions, catatonic calisthenics, twisting an arm, a foot, a limb . . .

 Four beautiful semesters in the Barnum-Bailey world of headstands, in the fair Olympia of Rosenthal Gym.*

Professors (with voices like tape recorders dedicated students tune hoarse instruments, scale ivory keys with limber fingers, adjust mouthpieces, pluck strings for practice or performance though instruments are reluctant to play

The cello squats on stubborn haunches, the violin lies wanly on its back, the kettle drum pretends to look formidable, the flute—insignificant, the trumpet—bold and brassy, not likely to be persuaded.

Coddled, cajoled, coaxed from cacophony to harmony they respond, at last, with ease and grace to the determined mouth, the willful finger and through a symphony of sound, a cascade of crescendoes and decrescendoes, time signatures dance across pages, half-notes pirouette in succession, whole notes give measures time to breathe the bass clef keeps his ears open for a flaw, the treble clef throws up her foot in ecstasy, keeping time with quarter-notes who hopskotch down staffed avenues through portioned measures-- the symmetry of sound swells, grows small again,

dies, beautifully, in the elegy portfolios, flanked by canvases that bang rhythmically against knees, the art majors en route to class cut a caricature

 in smocks and jeans they flock to a clanging world of bells, to a woodcut world of art where images present themselves in filed-away-precision, searching (as a poet searches for a right word) for the right shade, right hue, right blend.
 with a reverence for the old masters, a regard for the new,
 they shape, on the palette of individual imagination, frames of contained creation; they are their only limitation at the front of the class a nude poses, still as a leaf
 in the heat of summer.
 the silence of creation pervades bent heads, upturned faces---studies in contemplation. this is the world of the artist, serene, dimensional-- the world where design communes with emotion, where involvement is the only religion, dedication the only disciple-- the world that the frame of a picture

Reddy To Rock

Reddy Kilowatt never misses a party. In fact, without him, things would be pretty dull! Think of it: no stereos, televisions, electric guitars or ice cubes.

Thanks to Reddy there are over 160 flameless electric servants that make modern living comfortable, economical and fun. When you have a home of your own, there will probably be even more than that.
