me.

We at the Woman's College are some two thousand time-conscious people. The bells ringing, the clocks jumping, front lights flashing—classes at 8:10, conferences at 2:00, and meetings at 7:00 make us so. Each girl must ask herself what does all this mean? Is this four years at W. C. merely something we must bear with—days which must be checked off the calendar before we can get out into the world and really start living? Or is it more than this?

Those of us who have worked on this annual hold that it is much more. We believe that life at W. C. is unique and worthwhile not only as preparation for life, but as "a way of life" itself. This is what we have sought to present in the 1947 Pine Needles.

Mary Ann & Mary Ellen

In The Beginning . . .

Woman's College . . . the biggest place you have ever seen, spread out like a strange new town . . . opening your eyes that first morning and looking up at the cream-colored ceiling and the stiff brown furniture . . . the frightening lost feeling and wondering if you would ever belong . . . tagging behind your junior advisor, learning the shortcut from North to the Science Building . . . fumbling with the combination to your P. O. box . . . staring at the placement test, feeling dumber than you had ever felt in your life . . . watching upperclassmen, wondering if you'd ever have "That Look" . . . long afternoons at the round freshmen reserve tables, staring awfully at long rows of books, reading pages of small print about the manorial system, the circulatory paths of the earthworm, the travels of Odysseus, wondering if the process of education would ever begin to work on you . . . standing in a line of unclothed females, shivering at the impersonality of the camera focusing on your naked posture . . . knitting skeins of dull green wool into thick army sweaters . . . letters to your "man" in basic . . . sleeping through an eight o'clock with the recklessness of first cuts . . . spring holidays and a year almost gone . . . drawing for a room in an upperclassman dorm . . . promising to write your roommate . . . a last look at College Avenue as the bus sped homeward.

A Change Occurs . . .

and you come back to school a sophomore with a brand new picture to tack on your closet door and a brand new upperclassman feeling . . . talking into the wee hours about summer men and summer work, laughing about last year's "closed study" . . . writing 201 on the familiar white cards with knowing smiles to freshmen about courses and counselors . . . last drags in the lobby of Aycock and rushing to a downstairs chapel seat . . . listening to the SGA officers you helped elect last spring . . . singing the college song with gusto because you don't have to fumble for the words . . . making Sunday afternoon visits to the ORD hospital . . . dancing miles with men from Connecticut and Ohio, asking bright-eyed questions about service ribbons . . . raking leaves and serving tables with a practiced hip technique . . . being proud of your new sophomore jacket because it gives your class distinction and adds to your feeling of being an important part of Woman's College.

The Hour Is Near . . .

and you realize that your sister class graduated in the spring and that two years ago you looked up to juniors with awe and reverence . . . feeling funny because being a junior crept up on you . . . your major, a reality instead of courses in the college catalogue . . . serious thoughts and jokes about the cold, cold world and bread lines . . . Woman's College, seeming safe and secure and protective . . . regretting the courses you didn't take and the lists of unread books . . . forgetting it all with Sully Mason, W. C.'s first "name" band, and a beautiful junior-senior, the orchestra coming late and "Stardust" at the end . . . a spring of endless rain . . . discovering the little park across from the hockey field after three years of not knowing it was there . . . May Day in Aycock like freshman year, praying 1947 would be a rainless May . . . buying graduation presents and missing people even before they leave . . . talking about appropriations and a Student Union—a bigger and better Woman's College . . . wondering how it will look ten years after you graduate.

And Then At Last . . .

you're a senior . . . ready to leave this place that doesn't seem so big anymore . . . leaving four years of fifty minute hours in McIver and the Ad Building and Curry and the Gym and, because they were your hours, the whole sprawling campus is yours . . . all the girls you know and the faces you pass on the way to classes . . . teachers whose words you copied in grey-blue notebooks, ideas you argued about in lunch lines and across coffee at the Corner . . . uniforms—out of vogue for formals, ORD—a housing project . . . a glorious week-end at Chapel Hill, a fraternity party of gay young men, home from the wars . . . watching your last May Day . . . remembering Sunday afternoons with bombers roaring over the hockey field . . . meeting that last Monday class and wondering if it will always rain on Mondays in Greensboro . . . walking down the aisle for the last mass meeting, feeling graduated already . . . packing four years of your life into cardboard boxes and almost yelling “see you next year” to next year’s seniors . . . walking across the stage, staring in your last campus performance to the little group of relatives . . . grinning and turning the tassel.

this Book we Dedicate to our friend Miss Louise B. Alexander

To Miss Louise B. Alexander we fondly dedicate the 1947 Pine Needles. Her infectious chuckle, ready wit and entertaining stories of political shenanigans since Washington's time have endeared "Miss Alex" to students throughout the years. In appreciation of her interesting and highly informative classes, her lively interest in students, her perennial good humor we offer to "Miss Alex" — our annual.

GOVERNOR R. GREGG CHERRY

GOVERNOR R. GREGG CHERRY

In his biennial message to the North Carolina General Assembly, Governor Cherry clearly stated that he is the friend of higher education and advocated physical improvements and higher teaching compensation to insure the continued excellent standing of the Greater University. Though he is rarely on our campus in person, we are happy that he is in Raleigh looking out for the interests of Woman's College. It is heartening to know that he is our educational and political friend.

Administrative

or "Dr. Frank" as Greater University students lovingly call him, holds a special place in the hearts of Woman's College students. By his friendly manner, his warm sincerity, and abounding interest in the progress of Woman's College, we have come to regard him as a loyal friend. It is in eager anticipation that we await his visits to our campus. It is with inspiration and renewed hope that we go away from his speeches. One of the South's leading educators, "Dr. Frank" has done much for our Greater University, for his state, and for his southland.

MR. WILLIAM D. CARMICHAEL, JR.

It is quite a job to balance the budget of so great an institution as the Greater University of North Carolina, but Mr. Billy Carmichael does a splendid job of

it. We are glad when he comes to see us, for his charming personality and jolly enthusiasm do much to lift us "over the bumps."

CHANCELLOR WALTER C. JACKSON

To us, Dr. Jackson is our best friend and most able leader. Indeed, his personal manner, his devotion to our college, and his optimistic spirit are the core of our college life. He is always ready to listen to our ideas, to give us a guiding hand, and to serve our best interests. His spirit is best summed up in his oft expressed desire that Woman's College shall remain a Woman's College "second to none."

MISS HARRIET W. ELLIOTT

Before we came to Woman's College, whether we were from this state or any other, we knew about Miss Elliott. Before and during the war she worked for the interests of her college, her state and for her nation. Internationally known, Miss Elliott is a capable leader. She is keenly interested in her girls and anxious that they develop into responsible citizens. We are grateful for her spirit.

Alumnae and Former Students Association, Inc.

To every member of the Class of 1947—congratulations! It is a good thing to be a graduate of the Woman's College of the University of North Carolina. It is a good thing to be a member of the Alumnae Association of this College. The Alumnae Association provides a channel through which you can go on being a part of your College—not merely a part of its past, but of its growing future. Through such membership you will be able moreover to keep in contact with your classmates and college friends. This will be worth your while. And so—the Alumnae Association cordially invites you every one to come into the ranks of its membership. Indeed, so convinced are we of the value to you of this membership that if we could, we should give you the Queen's Invitation!

Minutes of

Two thousand one hundred members strong, the Student Government Association watched solemnly as new officers were inaugurated last May and listened proudly to hopes of progress expressed. Another year was beginning.

Preceded by rousing elections and weeks of apprenticeship, the mass meeting was only a prelude to what was to come. Plans for Pre-School Conference were discussed, and the latter part of the summer was spent sending out explanations of the honor policy to the freshmen. With new ideas and an interested group of leaders, students laid plans for the year at Pre-School Conference, formulating programs for the Social Committee and the Service League. Emphasis was placed on the work of the Honor Committee, and the group decided that upperclassmen and freshmen honor should receive concentrated effort.

Individual hall discussions broadened students' knowledge of what honor includes. A skit at mass meeting presented the meaning of the honor policy, and freshmen took tests on the handbook and its rules. An awareness of being a part of Student Government Association came with mass meetings and discussions of legislative doings in dormitories. True to its aspiration of providing more individual responsibility, Legislature aided the growth of freedom by lightening freshman dating rules, by allowing sophomores one eleven o'clock a week, and by clarifying existing rules. At check-up conference results of plans made at Pre-School Conference were discussed, and suggestions made for the remainder of the year.

Student government at W. C. is divided into three branches—legislative, judicial, and executive; and every student is considered a member. President Elizabeth Brittain presides over Judicial Board, mass meetings, and is invested with all executive power. Legislature is presided over by Vice-President Alice Farmer, who is also responsible for chapel seating. To Secretary Gladys Chambers is delegated the responsibility of keeping records of Judicial and Hall Board cases and taking minutes of meetings, and Treasurer Jane Perry keeps up with money spent and takes minutes of legislature meetings. Student government at the Woman's College is truly growing in responsible freedom.

Consider

Judicial Board,

dolling its black robes, has worked toward becoming more corrective and less punitive. Attempting to add a more personal touch, President Lib Britain has talked to all honor cases before they have come before "Judy Board," and members have tried to make students conscious of the excellent system of student government and to explain the reasons for rules. With comparatively few honor cases, "Judy Board" has found that fewer small rules, more responsibility, and somewhat stricter corrective measures have gone far toward strengthening the honor policy.

"Judy Board" is presided over by the president of Student Government and consists of five seniors, two juniors and a faculty adviser. The secretary of Student Government acts as secretary. Hall Boards set up in each dormitory are composed of the house presidents, a member of the "Judy Board," and four other girls living in the dormitory. All minor cases come under the jurisdiction of Hall Boards.

Honor Committee

under Truly Bryan, has emphasized personal honor in trying to carry over the fairly well-established honor in the academic field to strengthen the social side of the policy.

Points Committee

with the job of seeing that no girl holds too many offices, has become the newest student committee, having been turned over to students by the administration at the beginning of the year.

Finance Board

supervises student organizations participating in the budget, aids the four classes in handling their funds, and grants funds to each organization for operating expenses.

Elections Board

heralding elections with a Carolinian extra and a revised schedule for two elections, has emphasized the importance of campus-wide interest in voting. An old-time pep rally sent the election off to a colorful beginning. Innovations this year have included a new member from the Town Students Association, encouraging town students to participate.

“EVERY house where love abides and friendship is a guest is surely home, and home, sweet home; for there the heart can rest.” It is the responsibility of the leaders of the dormitories to see that each of their some one hundred twenty or more students feels that she is really “at home” in her dormitory. The counselors and house presidents measure up to this task in a most remarkable way.

The counselor is always willing to help solve our problems, comfort us in times of sorrow, or share with us our feelings of joy. It is she who keeps track of our “goings out and our comings in” (presuming, of course, that we cooperate in the matter). To her we are not just another student, but a personality which she can greet by name. She is always eager to share in any of our personal interests, congratulate us on our successes (sometimes we do have them), and understand and advise us if success has not been ours.

Our friend, the house president, keeps us informed with all news from legislature, helps plan our dorm dances and other social functions, answers our numerous questions (this, it is understood, applies mostly to freshmen. — Who said that????), and in general keeps things running smoothly. Yes, she even helps us bid our dates goodnight.

They have all proved that "We need not power or splendor; wide hall or lordly dome; the good, the true, the tender, these form the wealth of home."

We came back that last September, took our red jackets out of moth balls, wrote 400 numbers on our course cards . . . still we couldn't believe it . . . we were the senior class of '47. For three years there had always been another class ahead of us, somebody else to pass the buck to. Now we were standing with our hands full at the end of the line. S.G.A., the Honor Policy, Legislature—our responsibility for leadership. We made blue-prints for an "Integrated Community" at pre-school conference and between times we "policed" McIver's entrances! We developed a new appreciation for our school, for the standard of education it upholds . . . remembered the old saying: "Crops come up the way you plant them" and knew that we had been planted right. We are the Woman's College offering for the year 1947. Its black seal is our lodestone; its motto, our aim.

"There Are Such Things"

Is it true what they say about Dormitory Life? You bet it is! In this, our "home away from home," we hang drapes to make the four walls of our abode seem less bare and more like the room back home. Occasionally, we apply the mental facilities and do a little studying, and often we congregate in Susie's room for an hour or so of relaxation. Oh yes, we NEVER forget to sign out on a white permission slip when we are lucky enough to have a male visitor. And isn't it fun to cook and eat spaghetti and meatballs in Winfield's kitchen on Friday night?

Arts Forum

On March 20, 21, and 22, the Woman's College welcomed Robert Penn Warren, Ernst Bacon, Thomas Munro, and Valerie Bettis as headliners for the Fourth Arts Forum—a series of meetings centered about the creative activity of college students in writing, music, the visual arts, and the dance.

A cooperative undertaking of faculty and students, the Arts Forum is designed to bring together from a number of colleges teachers and students interested in the various arts to promote their understanding and appreciation. Beginning in the spring of 1944 the Forum has demonstrated also its value as a stimulus to creative work in the arts.

Last year's leaders were Lionel Trilling, Sheldon Cheney, Howard Hanson, and Charles Weidman.

June Comes Around Once A Year

At last it's June—the month we have looked forward to with great excitement, the month that will hold fond memories of our last days at Woman's College. Remember the feeling we had when the Seniors asked to be excused from the last mass meeting and the Juniors ran to fill our vacated seats? Remember how we prayed that it wouldn't rain on our May Day as it had done every May Day since we had been in college? We'll never forget our Sophomore sisters dressed in white who made up the Daisy Chain; nor the words of congratulation and hope for the future that were spoken to us by the administrative heads of our Greater University. Neither will we forget the long procession, led by the newly-elected Chief Marshal, to receive our diplomas in Aycock.

We're moving onward — the last mass meeting is over.

We unpacked our black jackets, pulled "Home for Keeps" pictures out of last spring's storage, and set out for the Corner to look over the new crop of boys at Bert's—the junior class had arrived. We towed freshmen around campus and sported tags saying "Ask Me," counted hours and quality points, took courses with "ideas" and pulled our hair over free-will and determinism. First semester reports took on new significance, and the P. O. sounded like the Violent Ward of an insane asylum when we got "unlimiteds." We went to the society dances and whirled by Rosenthal Gymnasium's first stag line . . . gave the seniors a glorious dance and had as much fun as they did . . . maybe more because we had another Junior-Senior to dream about. The year's end and we're on the home stretch—nothing can stop us now!

Upperclassmen we called ourselves proudly, remembering the freshman quadrangle with vague nostalgia. We held important offices on campus and began to get the feeling that we were helping to run Woman's College. We marched through the dining halls in our new, blue jackets singing lustily, "Onward, senior class of '49" . . . argued earnestly about religion, free love, environment and heredity . . . thought if we took all the courses in the catalogue we might know some of the answers . . . boosted our college to hometown Legislature members, dreamed about a new laundry and a chapel . . . dabbled in electives and came out with a major—a department to brag about to other college people. In short, we dug in and took firm roots at Woman's College. We were the Forty-Niners, and we'd graduate or bust!

“Just Give Us Time”

Alyce Bruin, Cheerleader; Barbara Moomau, President; Becky Blankenship, Secretary; Oriana McArthur, Vice-President; Edith LaBruce, Treasurer.

Freshmen are "eager" said the wise and somewhat weary senior, and we chorused back "Of course, how else could we get to be sophomores?" We memorized the rule book, got lost in McIver basement, learned the intricacies of checking out reserve books, wrote torrid love letters on Rat Day and paid our respects to Charles Duncan McIver with a toothbrush, ran down faculty and BWOC's for Cary news stories, donned blue jeans and blistered our hands on the ropes backstage of Aycock, elected class officers and representatives to Legislature, raked leaves and collected scrap paper, made acquaintance with Miss Moxley—all this we did between History and Spanish and Hygiene. Then the year was over and when we said goodbye to the senior, she leaned over and whispered, "Little eager people, Woman's College couldn't have done without you." And we smiled back, "Don't worry; we'll be here until the turn of the century."

Six Rats take time out from their "upperclassmen imposed chores" to smile for the photographer.

Rat Day . . .

"The Day Of All Days"

Rat Day—the day freshmen dread and the day sophomores look forward to with the memory of last year fresh in their minds. On that day, green-eyed freshmen, sans make-up, their hair in masses of pigtails, their clothes in the colors of their respective societies, their books in pillowcases, are at the mercy of the upperclassmen. They clean upperclassmen's rooms, carry their books, write hoards of love-letters, and chant laundry card lists to popular tunes. They brush the teeth of the McIver statue, propose to professors, and do anything else the "cruel" upperclassmen suggest. Did I say suggest? — I mean command!

What will those Sophs make us do next?

Four in one has been our motto—jamming years into months, weeks into days, and hours into minutes—a tight squeeze. The Ad Building was our second home, and we spent furious afternoons typing symbols into neat letters, exploring the intricacies of office machines, and learning that bookkeeping is an art, not a skill. We haunted McIver third floor for hygiene classes, discovered insides we didn't know we had, and puzzled over the way ophthalmia looked in shorthand. We did not escape Phys. Ed. and mourned our figures in shapeless blue. Dances were stolen leisure—gay slices of time—remembered when the orchids were dry rattles in green florist boxes. There were no stray moments, but somehow we found time for bull sessions and hours of doing nothing with people we liked. We were freshmen, sophomores, juniors, and seniors in one. We played a trick on time and got a headstart in this business of life.

"Vespers at Seven in the R. A. C."

"We unite in the desire to realize full and creative life through a growing knowledge of God. We determine to have a part in making this life possible for all people. In this task we seek to understand Jesus and follow him."

This is the purpose of the National Y. W. C. A., to which Woman's College belongs. Through its campus clubs, the "Y" seeks to teach effective personal growth, the human relationships of everyday living in the social, political, and economic worlds of today.

Eight clubs—senior, junior, sophomore, and five freshman groups—meeting every other week make up the "wheel" of the campus organization; while the cabinet, composed of thirty-four members, meets every Monday night and serves as a "pivot."

The Y. W. C. A. welcomes members from all faiths—Catholic, Jewish, Protestant. Its activities include weekly vesper services, Sunday visits to the faculty, Y-teen and Girl Scout leadership. Traditionally, Freshman "Y" clubs sing Christmas carols and hang wreaths on the doors of the dormi-ories and on the houses of faculty members. Frequent inter-cabinet meetings were held throughout the year with A. and T. and Bennett Colleges. Coffee and doughnuts were sold in the Religious Activities Center every Sunday morning for the convenience of those going to church.

Members of the "Y" attended the Conference on Applied Christianity, sent delegates to the Atlanta Conference on Religion and Labor, sponsored by the National Religion and Labor Foundation, attended State Y. M. & Y. W. meetings and other conferences during the year.

Religious Emphasis Week and International week-end were big events in the fall and spring respectively. Religious Emphasis week brought together leaders of the Catholic, Jewish, and Protestant faiths to promote better understanding, each of the other, over the campus, through open forums. In addition an all-association meeting was held in the spring.

For six weeks during the summer, the "Y" sends its incoming president to President School at New York's Union Theological Seminary and the incoming vice-president to Summer Regional Y. M., Y. W. Blue Ridge Conference.

An integral part of Woman's College, the Y. W. C. A., supervised by Miss Maxine Garner, Director of Religious Activities, furnishes an indispensable phase of campus life.

New plans, new activities, new understanding—those are the by-words for the 1946-47 Inter-Faith Council. The Council, which is a campus organization made up of members of all faiths, offers opportunity to the students to learn and understand religions other than their own. And this year they have moved far in the right direction.

Remembering 1946-47 the girls will think about Religious Emphasis Week and leaders joshing each other but getting along—working together—the rainy trip to Catholic mass and hearing Monseigneur Dolan explain it in English—the same at Temple Emmanuel with Rabbi Rypins—the symposium with Father Walsh and Rev. Mr. Holder and Dr. Friedlaender waxing warm over “Religion in the Liberal Tradition”—planning for inter-faith activities on this area with Dr. Seamans—the candlelight presentation of the story of Chaunakah before Christmas—the speakers at St. Mary’s House and sponsoring an inter-racial Commission meeting—the new kind of devotions—bull sessions in front of the fire to discuss things and learn to understand each other—raising $50 via Gorham Silver Company for the World Student Service fund—the P. T. A. programs—and, finally, the International Banquet with all the foreign students from this area.

"Has anybody got any clothes they're too big for? Don't be bashful; Europe needs them. Let your bathroom scales be your guide"; or "There's somebody buried under the leaves in front of Aycock! Come on, let's rake 'em out." Familiar to every ear are these cries of the "never-failed-yet" Service League.

Floor leaders, hall leaders, committee chairman—all have pulled together under the able leadership of Jumela Boulus to salvage and sell enough scrap paper to buy a $100 Government Bond for the Chapel Fund, collect $3,050.04 in Campus Purse Funds, put over "Christmas in October" for overseas relief, and muster food and clothing for the undernourished peoples of Europe and Asia.

Dubbing themselves the "You need it; we speed it" organization, the Service League is ever-ready for any and all emergencies.

The choir of some 150 voices, so expertly directed by Mr. George M. Thompson, is heard in concert twice yearly—at Christmas and again at Easter. This group also provides special music for chapel programs and University Sermons. A joint musical is given by the choir and orchestra during commencement.

Curtain At Eight

"I will not yield the field to him." quoth Archibald.
East Lynne.

The "Sweatshop," Chi in charge.

Angel Street.

To bring up a curtain it takes a month of hard work and wonderful fun. From the first notice of tryouts to the last curtain call, Play-Likers are seldom seen except at Aycock. A stranger to the fold who wanders in through the stage door on any afternoon is amazed at the activity. Flats are flown from the flies or hoisted up through the trap door. Hammers bang, saws whirr. The costume gals screech measurements from their second-landing sewing room. The prop crew is busily making a stool, a cup, a cow's head, or even a baby. The light crew is lost under the cable, and over them hangs a sign advising that, "You don't have to be crazy to work here, but it helps a lot."

At night the stage belongs to the actresses. Cross down right . . . my dear, you don't feel the part . . . once more . . . again . . . again . . . AGAIN!

Yes, this is Aycock—along with baggy eyes, National Embalming School, Thumper and good fun. And after the show is over, there is that inner feeling of a job well done, a promise of new and broader experiences in the theatre world.

The Play-Likers began the year with a production of East Lynne by Mrs. Henry Wood, directed by Mr. W. R. Taylor. This was followed by Angel Street by Patrick Hamilton, directed by Mr. W. T. Chichester. Then came in rapid succession Bedier's The Barretts of Wimpole St., directed by Mr. Taylor; Murder in the Cathedral by T. S. Eliot, directed by Miss Kathryn England and given in connection with the fourth annual Arts Forum; and a bill of experimentals, written and directed by students.

Every girl who wanders down to Aycock and puts on a pair of jeans becomes a Play-Liker. Those Play-Likers who do outstanding work, technically and dramatically, are tapped for membership in the Masqueraders are the same. This year the groups were led by: Hope Willard, president; Madeleine Parker, vice-president; Charlene Malone, secretary; Nancy Edwards, publicity chairman; Iris Anne Peterson, business manager.

A Year

"Pardon me, but will you pose for an informal shot for PINE NEEDLES?"

"Now smile."

"Say, when's the annual going to press?"

"That's a good question if we only knew the answer!"

And bit by bit a record of doings gets together as we fight film shortages, rainy weather when outdoor pictures are scheduled, and a deadline and exams at the same time. A year of living—long distance telephone calls, contracts, layouts, junior and senior pictures—right-hand-man Clara won't need an annual; she already knows it by heart. . . . "Can anybody think of a good informal title for the faculty page?—careful now." . . . "Did you see Mary Ann and Clara walking down McIver hall the other day with an umbrella up over their heads—engrossed in that little black notebook?" . . . "What will we do for ads?" Mary Ellen and Dot moan over adamant Merchants' Association . . . "I like this senior—only Adelpian Society to put under her name," as Nippie checks senior activities. "Does she spell Ann with or without the "e"? "What'll I do? I've lost my little black notebook. The annual will never go to press." And the staff gets panicky until somebody finds it just where the editor left it . . . The fun of "celebrating" (or should we say "collapsing") when all the pictures and copy have been sent to Charlotte.

Willing, congenial "Pop" Taylor even found time to come out on Saturday nights to take pictures; and ever-present, ever-helpful Mr. Campbell and The News Bureau stood by when things went wrong. Not to be overlooked in handing out the praises are the cooperative printers and engravers; what would we have done without Buck and his original poetry?

A year—a whole wonderful, hard, busy year—of living. And the little black notebook has finally emerged into a big, red PINE NEEDLES. We, the staff of '47, have had a lot of fun working on the annual; we sincerely hope you like our book of memories.

Ink on

Coraddi is the Woman's College magazine, a means of actual experience for students interested in writing, art work, advertising, photography, and all the odd jobs that go with shaping copy into a magazine.

The peculiar character of the Coraddi office consists in large part of the unorthodox entrance—a leap through the window—the dictionary which has been adopted by Cary people, the typewriter with a bent for roaming, the table with a collapsible leg, the three chairs which nobody sits in, and the musical john next door.

Staff meetings resemble a movie mob scene with appropriate dialogue: "Hey, quit crowding the floor. Gimme a cigarette. . . . Oh, well, I'll smoke a P.M. Pass the poems. But you've got the picture upside down!"

"Who's read a book?" the review editor shouts. "No, not Amber."

"Please, somebody write some fiction," implores the fiction editor. "Be missionaries. Go out and beat people on the head—anything! We've got to fill up this magazine."

"Look, let's make the stories at least a page long," the make-up editor pleads. "I keep having empty spaces at the bottom of pages."

"Who's got an idea for a feature? Well, write about the army . . . Poetry, poetry . . . look at that sunset; what do you want—egg in your beer?—ad infinitum until "Holy Cow, we'll miss supper." And the window looks like the jump door of a C-47. "Geromino!" the staff shouts in unison, and somehow the Coraddi goes to press. The result slips under the dormitory doors four times a year—fall, winter, spring, and summer. Since the interest of the public is the real end of the magazine, the staff hopes that its public finds the Coraddi readable.

"But I think it means . . ."

Our club presidents deserve recognition for many hours spent working with these important groups. Of how great value and pleasure is that part of time which we devote to activities of special interest! Whether it be in our hearts to sing, to dance, to write, to paint, to sew, "parler francais," "hablar espanol," to experiment, to calculate, or to study social problems or international relations, we can find a group who will share with us in the expression of these desires. Through special activities and programs, these organizations make themselves, their aims, and their progress known to the campus at large. Thus group interest is shared with all. It is in these clubs which form a vital part of the whole of campus life that we experience that warmth of feeling which exists between minds of one accord.

"We trip the light fantastic."

In the center of our social life stand the societies—Cornelian, Adelpian, Aletheian, and Dikean. Throughout the year they are busily planning formals, teas, and banquets. At all lectures and concerts, Civic Music programs and Junior League concerts, the society marshals are on hand to act as official hostesses of Woman's College. There are eight girls from each society elected to this honor according to scholarship, charm, and beauty; five are seniors and three are juniors. Whether there is sleet, snow, rain, or fair weather, these girls are always at Aycock, looking lovely and extending a smile to all those who attend these functions. In their Grecian-style white jersey dresses, with white regalia and a colored plaque, red for seniors, and lavender for juniors, which indicates the year of their graduation, the marshals are always on hand to preside over May Day and Graduation

Rat day is sponsored by all societies and is the formal initiation of all Freshmen and transfers to our campus. The societies initiated a new Rat Day plan this year. Each new student was given a big sister to help her through the day and to go with her to the banquet. The new plan was quite successful, for in the evening the freshmen donned their prettiest dresses, met their big sisters, and went to their society banquet. There they met their society president; were entertained by society talent; ate, perhaps, the best meal of the year to the strains of recorded dance music; and went home tired, but happy.

"Have a roke?"

One Sunday afternoon in late fall, the Cornelians gave an informal tea to compliment their little sisters. The gay event was held in Spencer game room which was decorated in keeping with the occasion. For two hours new students came in to personally meet their society officers and to talk over Woman's College and the home town with their society sisters. At the close of it all the new students went home to add another happy afternoon to an already growing memory list.

Several years ago the societies were instrumental in organizing a book exchange for students. Students can sell their books for a reasonable price, which may be bought next semester by new class members. All proceeds go to the campus chapel fund. From the splendid handling of this enterprise, the book exchange has grown to become an essential part of our campus.

Society

Eagerly awaited are the society dances. This year the societies combined to give two formals. In the winter the Aletheians and Adelprians gave a ball. This was the first formal that Freshmen could attend and also the first formal since the year that boasted of STAGS. The freshmen, fixed their hair a new way, put on their new evening dresses, pinned on their handsome corsages, and joined their sisters for an evening of wonderful fun . . . fun to the melodies of Paul Bell and his orchestra in a setting of fucia and white snowflakes. In the spring, likewise, the Cornelians and Dikeans gave their formal. Since every girl is a member of one of the societies, every girl had the opportunity to have her one and only over for an evening of smooth dancing to a local band. And shall we ever forget those week-ends? Just try to!

We must remember this!

Recreation Association Cabinet

This is the advisory board to the Recreation Association and includes all sports heads, club presidents, special committee chairmen, and three faculty members, including the faculty head of intramurals and a dormitory counselor. It decides the policies and practices of the Recreation Association and rules on problems pertaining to it.

This year, it voted to try out a new basketball plan, with the dormitory teams made up of only non-physical education majors and a separate tournament for the majors. The result of this will be studied and next year's policy will be determined according to the success of the plan this year.

The meetings are presided over by the president, Margaret Reynolds, who presents the problems of the association for discussion by the cabinet.

Margaret Reynolds, President.

Athletics At W. C. U. N. C.

"Play with the R. A.,
Today and every day!"

The Recreation Association is by and for the students. Its leaders, coaches, sports heads, club presidents and others are students who work with the faculty advisor to provide as large and as varied a program of activities for the students as can be accommodated on the athletic fields, in the gym, and at the Association's cabin, A-Hut-For-Fun.

Every new student is automatically a member of the Association during the first sports season, and thereafter she must participate in at least one sport or club per season to retain her membership.

Gala picnic style banquets are held at the close of the fall and winter seasons. Reports are heard from each activity of that season, dormitory and league winners are announced, and the honorary varsity is named. The final formal banquet climaxes the year's activities. Those students who have contributed most to the R. A. are chosen as members of the Honor Group, the highest honor given by the Association. Yearly dorm and league winners are announced and the old president formally turns over her duties to the incoming president.

This spring the Recreation Association was hostess to the National Convention of the Athletic Federation of College Women. Delegates came from colleges and universities all over the country to join in the fun and inspiration. They participated in panel discussions, demonstration programs, and heard outstanding speakers on current problems.

"A Game for Every Girl"

"A game for every girl, a girl for every game," we say and we really mean it. Whether in class or after school, everyone has a chance to learn almost any sport she likes.

Crisp October afternoons and hockey go together. The league teams practice together and then the tournament begins. Other schools come to visit and play and we return their visits. On Tuesdays, speedball lovers practice their punts and dropkicks in preparation for games. The tennis courts are kept busy every day that the weather permits and the doubles tournament determines the school champs.

When December days force us inside, basketball practices begin with enthusiasm. Each dormitory has a team and the highly contested tournament begins in February. And, of course, there are the stunts and apparatus enthusiasts who practice leaping over the box, the horse, and the buck and flying through the air on the rings or tying themselves into intricate knots, which are really easy (they say). Gym Meet climaxes this practice.

On the first pretty spring day, softball fans venture forth to the diamond with balls, bats, gloves, and masks, ready to begin the season with a flourish. Tennis players uncover their racquets again for the spring season and the singles tournament. Boating and canoeing furnish good date recreation on week-ends and golf draws still more participants. And of course, swimming is open all year both during the week and on week-ends.

TENNIS—Janet Gibson.

HOCKEY—Marilyn Vincent, Kaytee Kinlaw, Judy Swift.

MODERN DANCE—Ethel Kesler, Marjorie Hollister, Doris Due.

CANOEING—Anne Snyder, Helen Scott Smith, Anne Julian Hamilton.

And then there are the clubs. Modern Dance Group, Square Dance Club, and Clogging Club for the dance minded; Boot n' Spur for the equestrians among us; and Dolphin-Seal, Camp Counselors, and Golf Club.

Those of us who like to "get away from it all" take off for the R. A. Camp, "A-Hut-For-Fun," for a weekend of relaxation, swimming and boating, home-cooked food, and sitting around the open fire.

BASKETBALL—Anne Julian Hamilton, Teresa Shelton.

HORSESHOES — Mildred Curlee and Sue Bruton.

SPEEDBALL — Anne Julian Hamilton and Sue Bruton.

SWIMMING—Frances Kenny, Priscilla Downing, Bess Brothers, Pheobe Lucas.

SOFTBALL — Winfield's Team.

Gym Meet— “The Peak of School Spirit”

Twenty-six years ago the first Gym Meet was held with few participants and fewer spectators. That small Meet has grown into one of the most beloved of the traditions of Woman's College. The gym is packed to the last square centimeter with excited spectators and the participants perform with great enthusiasm. There is probably more school spirit than at any other time when the College Song bursts from every throat to conclude one more wonderful Gym Meet.

This year, there were more than the usual thrills. (Each one always seems better than the last.) The gym was gaily decorated with huge magazine covers resembling an oversize magazine stand. The different events took the names of various magazines with appropriate jingles.

See the Parade of the contestants around the gym, and Look at the Meet itself, with performers leaping over apparatus, rolling around the floor in difficult stunts, balancing on one another in couple stunts and pyramids, swinging blithely along on the rings, climbing ropes, and many other feats!

The faculty was at Liberty from their classrooms to compete in the hilarious faculty-student relay causing everyone to get cross-eyed trying to watch four teams at once.

Polly Pierson on the Box.

The sophomore Physical Education majors took us through the pages of National Geographic in their colorful folk costumes and performed intricate folk dance steps.

"Bicycling and skating—could be bad if they fell and ruined our build-up for Mademoiselle."

And then the junior majors, "Stepping in rhythm and rhyme—of course, it's the march of Time."

Oohs and Aahs sounded from the balconies when Esquire presented performers from Chapel Hill!

And at last, the coveted Coronet—the crowning of the varsity, those who rated best in the Meet—a handshake from Dr. Jackson and a corsage!

A tableau, Today's Woman, and the meet was at an end, leaving the walls still ringing with cheers and shouts and the familiar strains of the College Song.

From 8 in the Evening

At last a call that's just for me
 I'm just as happy as I can be
 . . . So off with him . . . at last I go
 'cause I've learned the things a girl should know
 . . . And what we do when all alone
 None of your business . . . just our own.

But after all the day must end

And back to Winfield Hall again

... It's there amid these girlish screams

I think of him in all my dreams

... 'cause ne'er again will there be another

Bless his heart . . . He's my kid brother.

What's the garment you grab for as you bound out of bed, unglue your eyelids, dump a bucket of water on your roommate with sadistic glee, and rush merrily through the rain to chat gaily with your friends in breakfast line? # Lest We Forget—

“Place: Woman’s College — Time: 1946-47”

1946-47, a memorable year, one which we hate to see come to a close—one of the four precious college years that we squander blithely, never realizing what they have meant to us until we recall them later:

There’s a special something we get here at Woman’s College that defies words . . . it’s a feeling . . . and it was very much present with us this year. Maybe it was the lump in your throat when little Nancy Mullican came out on the stage at mass meetings and the whole student body rose—2100 voices ringing out on the chorus:

“We will raise our voices

Let them swell

In a chorus loud and strong . . .”

Maybe it came to you in the twilight as you stepped out of the library and started across the bridge to see the little lights along the avenue by North Spencer winking in the dusk. Or maybe in the classroom when you found that your courses were beginning to relate themselves; or in your room right after lights out when you and your roommate rehashed the day’s activities. Maybe you got it as you lighted up that after-dinner cig and sat down to a good game of bridge on somebody’s bed . . . or around the desk at the CARY office, or nailing the scenery at Aycock, or playing a good game of basketball for your dormitory, or lugging your instrument over for Darlinette practice. Maybe at a surprise party in the dorm. At any rate you’ve “had it.” It’s the working together with other girls, it’s common interests, it’s W. C.

And what will be our special memories of this year?

Pre-School Conference and rain, rain, rain—the campus still summer green, matching President Britain’s favorite green garment. (Is that suit familiar?) Truly Bryan’s classic remark when discussing the honor policy: “Well, now that we’ve finished cheating, shall we move on to stealing!” Legislators were quartered in Weil and Lula fell so in love with them that she wanted them to stay and become “her girls,” too.

Theme for the conference was “The Integrated College Community.” Miss Alexander made a rousing speech on representative government. Chancellor Jackson and Dean Elliott addressed the group; and plans were made by Truly Bryan and her group on honor and Mary Lois Howard and the girls who discussed social functions for a re-emphasis of the honor policy and a shot in the arm for the social program.

In September the freshmen hordes arrived and for a week little groups straggled about the campus, directed by harried juniors with the familiar ASK ME signs. Remember the story about the freshman who thought the water cooler behind New Guilford was the bath house and was ready to go back to Massachusetts! Who could forget first house meetings and the familiar handbook?

The next week the real inrush began and the place looked as though the Okies had arrived, with cars loaded to the doors driving up every few minutes to upperclassmen dorms. Shouts of "Roo-oo-mate!"

Remember the gym on registration day? "I've told them all this stuff three times before . . . why don't they furnish carbons?"

Then came meetings on the honor policy, stressing "responsible freedom." Veterans appeared on campus around 5 o'clock in the afternoon to attend classes at the newly-formed College Center. Woman's College had its own veterans, most of them living in McIver House and Hinshaw. They were to be spotted by the WAC and WAVE overcoats, and by their intelligent interest in classes . . . their special lingo and camaraderie.

The library was so crowded with eager beavers that some, unable to find seats, were meditating buying periscopes and stationing themselves on the floor in the middle of the room. Five new counselors added new life to the campus. The Religious Activities Center had undergone rejuvenation and was dressed up with a new green and maroon color scheme. The social committee staged a big auction sale on the quadrangle . . . auctioneers chalked up a fortune on scarce Kleenex and soap flakes.

Fall and the leaves on the Norway maple in front of North Spencer (at least the leaves that were left after the biology students did their work) were yellow. Students put nickels in the juke box down at Bert's to hear Jo Stafford sing "You Keep Coming Back Like A Song." The Republicans took the off-year election and rabid Democrats went into hiding.

Playlikers caused us all to chortle with their production of the melodrama, East Lynne. One of the members of the Flora Dora chorus had trouble escaping from a devoted bald headed gentleman! Dean's List was announced and the lucky members of our little community rejoiced.

Bonus, head of Service League, harangued us for money for the Campus Purse Drive with an all-time high goal of $3,000. The thermometer registered student contributions and one day the paint splattered over the top! The Service League sponsored "Christmas in October" and each dormitory had a party with gifts for students in European colleges. Quill Club, under Nan Sutton's leadership, sold sandwiches on Friday night for a new scholarship fund. Judy Board took off its black robes, thereby recognizing its function as a corrective rather than a punitive body.

On week-ends there was a mass exodus for football games at Chapel Hill, Duke, State, Wake Forest, Davidson. Roommates were divided on the perennial Carolina-Duke game; but Carolina trounced Duke! A Caravan went to State for the Homecoming Game with the University of Virginia.

With a return to the "good old days" of college life, fraternity pins replaced navy and marine insignia and air corps wings. But there were still problems: some of our dances were declared optionally formal for men because of the tux shortage and flowers were ruled out sometimes because the GI Bill did not take care of these luxuries. Remember the informal dance in the gym with music by the Darlinettes? The big saddle shoe street dance with music from Mary Faust's terrace and lanterns on New Guilford's terrace? Class formals in the gym . . . "Dancing in the Dark," "Autumn Nocturne," "Snowfall"?

In October the first Religious Emphasis Week held on campus in four years left us with new spiritual insight and enthusiasm derived from vivacious Mrs. Hasting, Rabbi Feinstein, Father Beuard, and all the others. A movement for a department of religion on this campus got underway.

In November Max Lerner gave new impetus to liberal ideas on campus. Students headed for the annual Applied Christianity Conference in Raleigh. For the first time since the war, editors and business managers of the publications attended the Associated Collegiate Press convention in Chicago.

Legislature, under the leadership of Alice Farmer, revised some of the social rules: sophomores were voted one 11 o'clock per week; freshmen could not leave campus for a first date.

First Thanksgiving holidays since World War II! We used them to good advantage, cramming turkey with the home folks. Everybody called everybody else "Ugly Chile" and the favorite expression was, "That's what the man said. That's what he said."

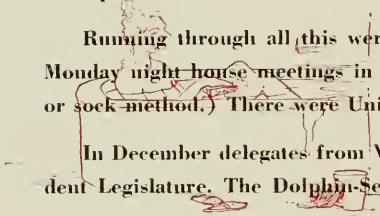

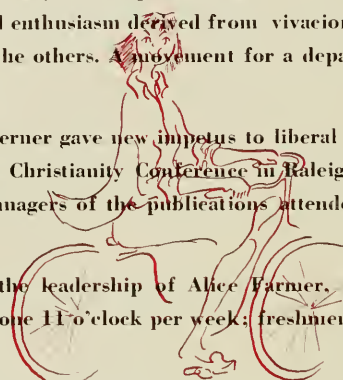

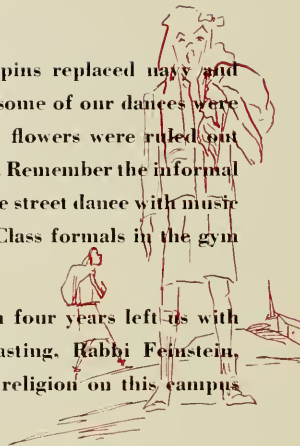

Running through all this were the threads of rainy Tuesdays and white mountain rolls; Monday night house meetings in housecoats and curlers. (Others recommend the bobby pin or sock method.) There were University Sermons and class meetings.

In December delegates from W. C. attended the first inter-racial meeting of the State Student Legislature. The Dolphin-Seal Club presented its water pageant, Fanta-Sea.

Christmas approached and with it the choir concert at 11 o'clock . . . white trees and poinsettias . . . red and white choir robes . . . blue lights. The tree by the Spencers was lighted in all its glory. Smaller trees enlivened the dorms, and there were parties in most of the dorms. Kirkland gave a party in the hut with all three fires blazing and large candles on the mantels. Then we were off for home, crammed with information relating to the watchword, "This is Woman's College Year." We surrounded legislators to convince them that we had to have that appropriation . . . and it worked! We received a sizeable portion of it.

Bare trees, a wind that went through your clothes, kerchiefs, coffee brewing—dreamers hummed "For Sentimental Reasons"; others whistled "Hugging and a'Chalking." Dancing in Weil-Winfield ballroom. Cheeseburgers at the Grill. Winter on the W. C. campus.

Came the ordeal . . . exams! Pig-tailed, blue-jean clad, bag-eyed horrors haunted the halls.

Breakfast lines were insurmountable. Then the campus was deserted for a day or so until we returned for registration more bag-eyed than ever.

Hose-clad seniors discussed case work or practice teaching. Coordinating Blues were all the word.

In February a crowded post office marked Valentine's Day and the coming of these little white envelopes containing grades. Elections got underway with a big campaign rally in the gym. Old-timers Bonlus, King, Hill, and Webb introduced candidates. Posters broke the wind. Seniors pitched their progressive dinner, going from dormitory to dormitory, and winding up at the Alumnae House for coffee and dessert with the faculty.

Spring and the yellow bells blossomed by the bridge; the quadrangle seemed to turn green overnight; Peabody Park came alive with dogwood; Mary Faust's garden bloomed anew; and lilacs lent beauty to east campus. Boats came out on the lake. Figures appeared on the tennis courts. The sun-bathing tent went up. We partied again at the sophomore and freshman formals and at junior-senior.

In March came the annual Arts Forum. We heard Robert Penn Warren, Ernst Bacon, Thomas Munro, and Valerie Bettis. The campus was swamped with delegates from other schools. Gin-Gin McKimmon and her staff put out a special Coraddi with the best material submitted.

The Big Gym Meet had "Magazines" for its theme; and we all went out to cheer our league. Playlikers gave the first college production of The Barretts of Wimpole Street.

And finally the last mass meeting. Seniors, in caps and gowns, marched in to the strains of:

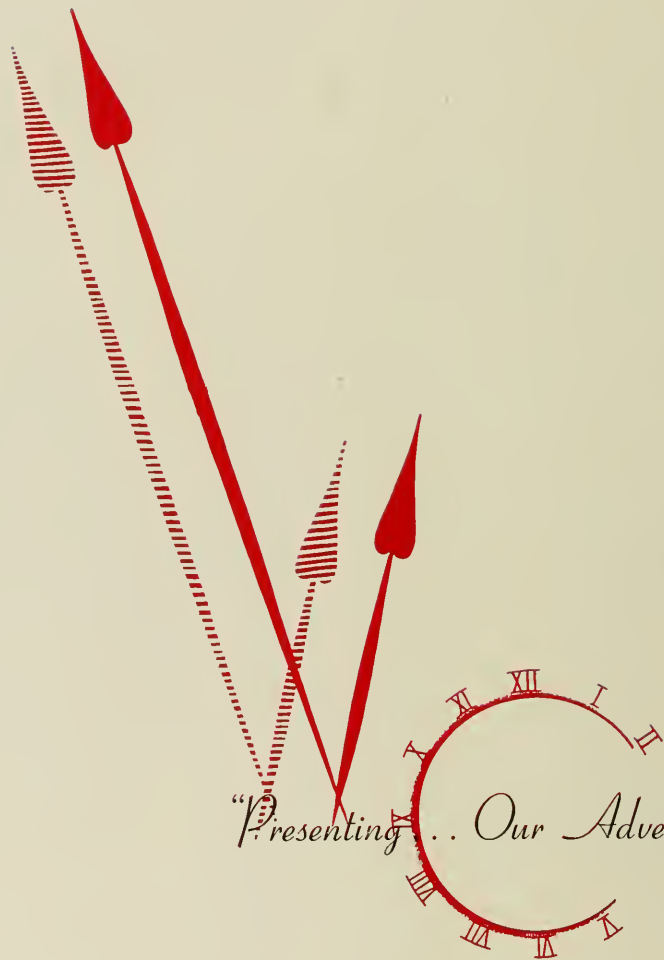

"May God build for you a harmony
That will be both great and strong,
Making all your life a melody . . ."

President Britain made her last speech. Commercials left and seniors were excused. From the back of the auditorium the last notes of "We, the class of '47 do . . ." came to listening ears. The class of the fire-engine red jackets was officially through; and juniors and sophomores moved up front. Freshmen rushed downstairs with a swoop. Seniors retired to Alumnae House for election of everlasting officers. Then came graduation and the last dance, Senior Ball.

It was a good year—'46-'47—a year characterized by unusual harmony between student government, administration, and publications; a year memorable for hard work and good play . . . a post-war year in which many of us got used to "things as they used to be." It was a year which we will all look back to with mingled emotions . . . a chuckle here, a tear there . . . but with nostalgia for one year, a college year, over. And so we write 30, our newspaper word for The End, to the year 1946-47.
