His years at the Woman's College have just begun, and while we perhaps regret that ours are over, we are happy that the memories of one who grew with us will not exclude those of the class of fifty-four. The familiar pipe, the rimless spectacles, the upraised hand, the sport coat with a tweed cast, the giant size desk in the bay window, and his twinkling Phi Beta Kappa key: these are the things that have endeared him to us as a friend. With affection tempered with sincere admiration and respect, we proudly dedicate the 1954 Pine Needles to our Chancellor, Dr. Graham.

'Walk into my parlor . . .' but we've changed the story a little, because it now starts 'Walk into our building, and LOOK!' This is Elliott Hall, as we see it and live in it. The days begin with a pilgrimage to the Post Office, still crowded in spite of attempts to traffic the stream at 9:04 in the morning. Passing through the main lobby, which houses at various times election posters, booths for the Activities Fair, and announcements of events soon to take place, we come to the bookstore, where it's possible to purchase nearly every textbook known to man and the Woman's College, but where the animals seem to hold much more fascination for the students. The game room, a good place for a casual cigarette, a better place for informal dances, coke parties, dorm dances, and general campus social functions, is just to the left of the bookstore. Up the steps we find the lounge and the immense ballroom, which has hosted dances, exhibits, concerts, and even some one-act plays. The East and West Lounges, beautifully and comfortably furnished, provide facilities, in collaboration with a large kitchen just off the ballroom, for coffee hours, faculty functions, or those 'date but no car' couples on weekends. The switchboard, lifeline of the campus communication system, is located in the foyer of the side entrance from College Avenue, as are the stairs leading up to the offices on the second floor. The publications and the student government activities originate here; legislature meets in a room at last all its own. The Religious Activities Center occupies several offices and a versatile room for meetings, panels, and forums. Down the stairs we come to the main entrance, with its gleaming mobile, and the glass doors that offer a cordial invitation to come in.

ANNE SCOTT FORD
President of Elliott Hall

MISS ELVIRA PRONDECKI
Director of Elliott Hall

Elliott Hall was designed to fulfill the growing need of a place on campus where our social activities could be integrated. Under the direction of the council, we hope to build a well-balanced and varied social program which will meet the individual needs of every girl on campus, be they social or cultural. Therefore, the program is flexible, depending on the interests of the students here now and those who will come in the future.

Elliott Hall Council exists to function as the governing body of Elliott Hall. The council consists of the President of Elliott Hall, as chairman of the council, the Hall representatives, and one representative from the Town Students' Association. The faculty director, her assistant, two counselors, and three faculty members act as advisers. This board of directors and the representative group on campus are the administrative group, a deliberative body. They review all plans of the seven Committees before they are put into effect and act as the official hostesses for Elliott Hall.

All activities center around seven committees. The Fine Arts Committee, which is composed of students interested in drama, dance, writing, and music, sponsors discussions and lectures on the fine arts, art exhibits, concerts, and a student glee club. The Student-Faculty Social Committee is created for the purpose of the furtherance of better faculty-student relationships on an informal basis. Their year has been composed of teas, open houses, and a square dance. They are in charge of any social function on campus to which the faculty is invited. The Publicity Committee publicizes all Elliott Hall functions and edits Here's How, a freshman brochure. The Poster Committee makes posters for all Elliott Hall functions and performs a campus-wide service in making posters for nominal fees. The Discussion Group Committee sponsors all informal discussions and panels on topics of current interest. The Entertainment Committee has charge of the game room and sponsors monthly entertainments, such as the Turkey Hop, Juke Box Saturday Night, and informal dancing in the game room on weekends. The Special Events Committee works with the Arts Festival and Social Science Forum, the Consolidated University Day here at the Woman's College, and the big informal dances on a campus-wide scale.

Elliott Hall is unique in the respect that any student who is interested may join and work on any of the seven Committees. At present there are nearly five hundred and fifty students, all volunteers, participating in Elliott Hall's programming. All plans and activities are guided by the students, their desires, wants, needs, and ideas.

Student Government

EMILY BUTNER
President

The Student Government Association on the Woman's College campus is a remarkable continuity of the democratic spirit. It perpetually strives to assist the individual in fulfilling the right and responsibility she has to help educate herself through active participation in a democratic educational community. Inspiration, though, and action directed toward the most efficient fulfillment of this program is the vital diet upon which student government thrives. In a tripartite community of students, faculty, and administration, S.G.A. is the official organ of student opinion and cooperation in the promotion of common welfare at Woman's College.

The year 1953-54 saw active consideration of the extension of the Honor Policy to embrace Chapel attendance. Initially confounding confusion at an October meeting of Legislature, the question of extending the Honor Policy was subsequently spearheaded at mass meeting of the student body to undergo a process of further dissection. Judicial Board and House President's Organization, as reliable pillars in the bulwark of Student Government, worked side by side with the Legislative and Executive branches to support and implement a program contrived to best meet the needs of Woman's College students.

Legislature

Student Government, the official organ of student action and opinion, promptly came to order at 7:15 p.m. the first and third Wednesdays of each month in the solemn but spacious Legislature room of Elliott Hall. With suggestions that "the speaker please rise" and reminders that "the amendment is not germane," order was obtained by Legislature Chairman Kay Neelands in collaboration with that reliable and unimpeachable source of authority Robert's Rules of Order. Proposals affecting college and community, extra-curricular activities, student-faculty relations, and inter-collegiate contacts, swelled the agenda and received a thorough mulling over by the masterminds of Legislature. Frances Burroughs, the conscientious and efficient Secretary of Legislature, jotted down the innumerable motions, discussions, observations, amendments to the amendments, and other sage comments, both spontaneous and premeditated, that issued from the floor of Legislature. From this mottled confusion Frances compiled an accurate and concise record of actions passed and constitutional changes proposed. Throughout the year Legislature set up various special committees and sub-committees charging them with preliminary tasks necessary to expedite particular programs. On a similar plane were the Standing Committees established in years past with charges to administer standing programs set up by Legislature. The members of Student Legislature, 1953-54, experienced inspiration, deliberation, and compensation in their continued efforts to render an over-all program of far-reaching benefits to Woman's College.

GERALDINE FISH
Chairman of Judicial Board

The purpose of Judicial Board is to deal with serious infractions of the Honor Policy. The Board works in conjunction with Honor Board to establish and carry out that policy in a manner which is most beneficial and applicable to this campus society, as well as the individual and the community.

Following a change in 1953 in the organization of Student Government, the Judicial System functions independently of both the Legislature and Executive branches, with the Judicial Chairman as its head.

Members of the Judicial Board are appointed from the three upper classes. The Secretary of S.G.A. attends the meeting to keep records of the meetings and cases, while the student body president is an ex-officio voting member of the Board.

Sessions held by Judicial Board now take place in the Pecky Cypress Room of the Alumnae House. This change was instituted so that the atmosphere of the meetings might be less apprehensive, while retaining the necessary formality.

National Students' Association

... a group which is rapidly rising in importance on campus, was led this year by Mary Anne Spencer. In addition to sponsoring the book exchange and foreign tours planned to fit a student's budget, they have worked toward the furtherance of relations between our students and those of other countries.

Finance Board

... is composed of students and faculty members skilled in the handling of group finances. This board determines the distribution of funds among the various student organizations according to their needs and student interest. The group was headed this year by Sarah Carpenter, Chairman; with Dr. Albert Keister, Mr. John Lockhart, Miss Eleanor Craig, and Mrs. May Adams serving as advisors.

Honor Board

... the visible example of the Honor Policy at W.C., strives to make the idea of a personal code of honor leading to individual and group responsibility on campus, a working reality to both new students and upperclassmen. The board was this year headed by Geraldine Fish and aided by the guidance of Dr. Warren Ashby.

Points Committee

... Under the leadership of Becky Lane, Chairman; Mrs. Annie Beam Funderburk and Dr. Charlotte Dawley, advisors; has carried out the policy of limiting the number of points that each student may carry in order to have more people, rather than a few, serve as the campus leaders. The committee determines the number of points for each office on the basis of responsibility involved.

Elections Board

... with Barbara Mitchell as chairman has installed the preferential ballot in order to eliminate primaries and reduce the tedious work that accompanies the democratic method of election. They also arrange the dates for campus elections. Miss Rita Burdette is advisor to the board.

Reviewing Committee

... with Miss Anne Lewis serving as chairman, has continued in their effort to maintain smooth relationships between the faculty and students. It is constantly on the watch for possible points of friction and means of cooperation between these two groups so important to each other. This year the group worked to suggest ways of improving the registration system.

Consolidated University Student

W.C. students go on parade for C.U. Day.

Council

Didn't the weather man know it was CU Day?????

The Consolidated University Student Council is a liaison between the students of the three branches of the greater University—State, Carolina, and the Woman's College, each branch being represented by eleven students.

The occasion of the fall Consolidated University Day at Chapel Hill was the annual State-Carolina football game. Sponsored by the Council, the special program was planned to emphasize the unity of the three schools which make up the University. A luncheon was held for the Council and the University trustees, followed by a welcoming address by Gordon Gray, president of the University, at half-time. The members of the Council were hosts at the afternoon reception, and an informal dance highlighted the evening.

The Winter CU Day was held at State in Raleigh during February. It featured the traditional basketball game and dance as well as the meeting of the Council. The Woman's College was hostess in the late spring and presented a talent program and a hall ball game, soon to rival football in its popularity among University students!

The exchange of newspapers among the schools helps to keep the "Big Three" informed as to the activities of each.

The Consolidated University Council is one channel through which we may establish a meeting ground for the three branches of the University of North Carolina.

PINE NEEDLES 1954

The 1954 Pine Needles is no longer just a vision in the minds of the staff, but a reality. Within it, we hope, are the keys to many happy memories of one year in your college career. Our main object was to portray W.C. just as we the students see it, from 6:45 a.m. until the wee hours of the next morning. The main emphasis is on the newest addition to our campus—Elliott Hall, complete with gleaming doors, smoke-filled offices, and the early morning rush in the post office. Our problems were higher prices, reduction in color content, and more material than space. The windfalls were a modern layout and the best photography job we've had in years.

It all began in the humid days of the summer of '53. Then there wasn't a theme; the pictures were only ideas in Mr. Martin's eye; the layouts were dreams in Birgel's brain. Copy hadn't been thought of, much less planned and ready to go. But the staff was, and with an office of minute dimensions and five copy dummies, September rolled on. Colonna came and went; with him were the junior and senior portraits. Miraculously, all those green, red, purple, and brown sweaters did photograph black, but it was strictly luck. We all but stood the class officers on their heads in search of something different. All during the fall, that search continued: for cover design, for art work, for pictures. With Elliott Hall, it was easy; with some of the traditional topics that have always been a part of campus life, it wasn't so easy. The rains came, and pictures were held up; closed study and mid-semester exams took their toll on the staff; and the deadline drew closer. Captions were many and labored; after all, how original can three people be in one night? But after much coffee, many cigarettes, adding and discarding, everything was ready to go. And this is it. The story of a year, this year, the best of the four "green years." We've tried to put it on paper, for you to see and remember as you actually lived it.

WOMAN'S COLLEGE OF THE UNIVERSITY

Cary, like most newspapers, is many different things to many different people. To the nearly 3,000 students and friends who read it each week, it's a pint-sized bulletin board, a glorified campus directory, a sounding board, and the best wastecan liner yet devised by woman.

To those who call its offices home Monday through Wednesday nights, it's a happy confusion of antiquated typewriters, perpetually-missing galley sheets, ear-bending crusaders, and the good-natured gripe.

Cary, also like most newspapers, is a chronic worrier; it worries about little things like deadlines and make-up and pictures with the wrong captions. Sometimes it worries about big things like what its readers want it to be and how free a truly free newspaper has a right to be.

THE 1953 ... 1954

Coraddi, The Woman's College literary magazine, appears four times yearly, publishing undergraduate work in graphic art, fiction and poetry, the purpose being to provide a place in which rising artists may see their work set down in black and white. It also serves in some wise to let the campus know what is being undertaken in the various fields. Since Arts Forum this year is to be made a campus affair, stretching over some eight weeks, Coraddi will follow suit, bringing out, instead of the usual Arts Forum issue with the pages and pages of miniscule type, a larger than usual issue devoted to a fine arts spread.

This year, the usual problem of material, material, who's got a story, has not presented itself; the printer has converted himself into the most obliging human being in the world, the advertisers have consented to stop crowding material off the back pages, and the composite picture would seem to be, although black and white, rosy all over.

Coraddi Club, established by Coraddi staff members several years ago, functions as a discussion group working with topics of such variety as developments in French literature to the practical workings of General Education. Coraddi Club meetings are held for everyone and anyone who is interested. Coffee is always served, and the informal conversations following the meetings are, we feel, perhaps the most valuable part of the discussions. This also represents one of Coraddi's efforts to serve as a campus medium for student thought.

If any attempt were made to sum up what this year's staff has accomplished, we might say, "Well, we put in an art spread, we published some good work, we got some headings into san-serif type, and cut down on using lower case italics. We had a fine arts issue; we found out how to be peaceful with our printer, and we had the prettiest covers Coraddi ever printed." Is there anything else? There is. It's the same understood purpose, which perhaps remained only in our minds, but which was very definitely there, and which we hope showed in the four issues. We did the best we could to put out four good Coraddis.

"BACK HOME

The Town Students' Association, functioning in much the same way as a campus-dormitory unit, provides an organized group for those students of the Woman's College who do not live in the residence halls. Although they have a special organization of their own and hold required monthly meetings, they are subject to the rules and academic regulations of the college, with the exception that their judicial board is a separate one. Successfully, these girls have made themselves an integral part of the college community through their participation in Legislature, the Elliott Hall Council, the various service projects of a campus-wide nature, and other activities in which the student body has a part. Their contribution to campus life has served to make them and their organization a very purposeful part of the college.

The officers of the organization have drawn up a constitution for the Town Students' Association patterned after that of the Student Government. President Lou Bradley, aided in this work by Mary Bivens, vice-president, and Christine Hill, secretary-treasurer, hopes that a constitution such as this will further help to make their contribution to the college and their benefits from their campus activities more vital ones. Miss Elvira Prondecki has served in the capacity of advisor to the group, working with the officers and the organization as a whole to further the ever-growing relationship and communication between the girls who live at home and the girls whose home is a dormitory.

Their Lounge, on the ground floor of Elliott Hall, is the center of the daily activities which all college students seek. A telephone, chairs, study tables, and the restroom and lockers provide the facilities which have been so long needed, and the girls planned as one of their projects the complete decoration of this lounge, their 'home away from Home,' if not so far away. Relaxation with each other, comprised of 'gab sessions, bridge games, and trips to the Soda Shop, and study take up the parts of the day which the girls do not spend in class, but when they must be on campus.

The year began weeks before the opening of school, as plans for the first social function were well under way. The informal tea for the new students, an annual affair to introduce them to the college as a body, was followed by the actual "Ice-breaker," a costume party, where the girls took off their gloves and hats and revealed their most secret, suppressed desires. Costumes were indicative of yearnings no one had ever imagined, and probably the wearer hadn't either! The party brought a happy feeling of "belonging," which carried throughout the year. Christmas brought the chance to play Santa Claus to a group of well-deserving youngsters, as well as an informal dance, and a chance to prove to the men that Woman's College isn't the place they thought it was at all. Spring brought an enthusiasm for sports, with volleyball, softball, and basketball taking the limelight. Gym meet found the teams ready and eager to show their prowess. With the holidays came reminders that the time was drawing nigh to begin preparation for the big spring formal, which has become a traditional part of the year's activities. It involved selecting a theme and planning decorations, refreshments, and entertainment to fit, selecting chaperones and the best Saturday night in the year, meaning, of course, no prospects of rain!

The disadvantages in living off campus—finding parking places, rushing to return overnight reserve books, and perhaps missing the fun of living in the residence halls—are off-set by the absence of curfew hours, of "no-men-on-campus-Mondays," and by the possibility of staying up all night, if necessary to read those overnight books, and of driving to and from classes. All of this and more makes up the Town Students' Association. The girls make up a group who go to college without leaving home. They are a part of Greensboro and a part of the college community, both on the campus and off.

Young Women's Christian Association

The Young Women's Christian Association is the non-sectarian religious organization at Woman's College. The organization is divided into six clubs which meet regularly during the month in the residence halls, and which come together in the Religious Activities Center for general meetings at regular intervals during the year. The "Y" Cabinet, the legislative body of the Association, is composed of the officers, committee heads, and club leaders, with the Co-ordinator acting as advisor.

The program emphasis for the year is divided into four units: Marriage and Vocation, Bible Study, Contemporary Faiths (a series of eleven lectures, "The Eleven World Religions," presented by Mr. Charlie Phillips), and Social Responsibility. The Y.W.C.A. sponsors a campus-wide vesper service on Sunday nights, a caroling service at Christmas time, and a sunrise service at Easter.

The Y.W.C.A. offers to every student of all denominations opportunities in the fields of spiritual enrichment, leadership development, and social activity. The "Y" should play a meaningful part in every student's college life.

The Inter-Faith Council attempts to promote an atmosphere of spiritual growth and to encourage each student to participate in the activities of the religious group of her choice. It is composed of the president and one representative from each of the eleven organized religious groups and the Y.W.C.A., and one representative from each of the unorganized groups.

Among the contributions of the Council this year were: a handbook entitled "Religion at Woman's College," observance of Brotherhood Week; informal Sunday afternoon discussions; a program series, "Religion in the Fine Arts," presented in cooperation with departmental clubs in music, art, drama, and modern dance; the publication of a monthly bulletin of all religious events, campus-wide and denominational, as well as the maintenance of a bulletin board serving all religious groups. The Inter-Faith Forum, based on the theme "Faith for our Times," was the most extensive activity.

Mrs. Ruth A. Clarke, Co-ordinator of Religious Activities, advises the Council.

Service League

JEAN WATSON
Chairman

An organization unique to the Woman's College campus is the Service League, which unifies the functions of different clubs on other campuses. This group was chartered during World War II by the Student Government Association and has been working hard ever since its founding.

The purpose of Service League is two-fold. It serves both the campus and students and those less fortunate than we. By means of various drives, it strives to accomplish these goals.

The Main project of the organization is the Campus Purse Drive. Because of this collection, the students are not approached by various charitable agencies coming to collect money several times during the year. Money is collected once, and then apportioned by the Service League to deserving causes and organizations. This year a new plan was instituted whereby those on campus contributed to the purse fund the amount of money they would ordinarily have spent on Christmas cards, thus sending greetings to their friends in a true Christmas spirit. Towards the end of the drive, the League sponsored the annual Faculty Talent Show, a truly enlightening event. Money collected was sent to state, national, and international associations. The largest percentage was given to a worthy foreign student as a scholarship, and the next largest appropriation was made to the World University Service Fund. CARE, Community Chest, American Friends Association and other worthy groups were helped by our contributions to the Purse Drive. For the first time money was also sent to the National Fund and Scholarship for Negro Students.

Service League has many other functions. It sponsored a Clean-up campaign of the grounds and Soda Shop. Although students are urged to keep our facilities clean all year, a special week was devoted for emphasis of this service. The organization also sponsored the Bloodmobile unit, which made its annual appearance on the campus.

Another of Service League's projects was the clothing drive. Most of the clothing collected was sent overseas for relief.

Still another division of Service League is concerned with the conservation of food, water, fuel, and electricity on the campus. This project was given greater emphasis this year than ever before.

Service League has twenty-five members. There are eighteen dormitory representatives, who are either elected in the various halls or appointed by the house president, and an advisory board consisting of seven members of the student body and faculty. On the advisory board are the publicity director, the treasurer, the faculty advisors and the committee chairmen.

The Service League is an important part of our campus as a whole, for only with student understanding and cooperation can it function.

GOVERNOR WILLIAM B. UMSTEAD

William B. Umstead was graduated from the University of North Carolina with a B.A. degree. After he returned from service in France during World War I, he studied law at Duke University. He has served his nation well, and continuing in his tradition of public service begun years ago, he is now governor of the state of North Carolina and a trustee of the Consolidated University of North Carolina.

President Gordon Gray, tar heel by inheritance and by choice, scholar who led academically his graduating class of the University of North Carolina, newspaper publisher, left his native state to become Secretary of the Army under President Truman; but returned acclaimed by national and world figures, to assume responsibility as president of his alma mater. In this position again he has proven himself worthy of the great task that is his.

An outstanding leader in the field of education, Chancellor Graham has become a vital part of the Woman's College Community. He received his B.A. and M.A. degrees from the University of North Carolina. After serving as Dean of Faculties at Washington University in St. Louis, Missouri, Dr. Graham assumed the position of Chancellor at Woman's College in 1950. His progressive ideas and forceful personality will continue to stimulate Woman's College students on every level of college life.

The experience Miss Taylor gained as a member of the Woman's College faculty enables her, as Dean of Students to combine the aims of faculty and students into a well-coordinated whole. Through her contacts with the residence halls and her participation in student organizations Miss Taylor integrates all phases of student activity and channels student energies in the proper direction. Thus she has won the admiration and respect of Freshmen and Seniors alike.

A native of Kansas, Miss Mossman received her degrees from Morningside College in Iowa and the University of Chicago. She has had a wide and varied experience in the field of Sociology, having worked with the Chicago Orphan Asylum; Gingling College, Nanking, China; and Alabama Woman's College. A rich background and vigorous personality combine to make Miss Mossman a valuable asset as Dean of Instruction at Woman's College.

Welcome Class of 1954!

The Alumnae Association has watched with pride as you have made your contribution to Woman's College during the past four years and will follow your future accomplishments with interest as they are added to those of 26,000 other Alumnae throughout the world.

You leave something of yourself at Woman's College; you take something of Woman's College with you when you leave.

The College belongs to all of us who are thus charged with the responsibility of helping to make her greater all the time, of protecting the good name that she has won for herself, and of adding our own service to her distinguished record in the knowledge that "... as we serve our hearts will turn, O College dear to you."

Life on our campus, the life that doesn't have anything to do with classes or conferences or the soda shop or trips to the class chairman's office or the gym or the Placement Office or all the way down to Aycock or to town to the sales on cashmere sweaters, is an indefinable state. It doesn't take place in the proverbial "home away from home"; it isn't lived among the members of "one great big happy family." It isn't personified in the building of the name it bears; it isn't one counselor, or one house president, or the pair of roommates in the room just down the hall. It is a group of people, living together . . . laughing together . . . crying together . . . growing together. It is all these things rolled into one, welded with the small, infinitesimal, happy, and unhappy, times that we shared. Things like the confiscation of the battered perculator . . . the bridge games: "just five hands, please" . . . the lost nickels in the Coke machine . . . cigarettes and Sunday funnies . . . cigarettes and a glance at Coraddi . . . and just cigarettes . . . Christmas without a tree in the dorm . . . "Trash Man" at eight-seventeen a.m. . . . the notes on the call-board, and the ones that weren't there . . . the "tea" that turned out to be tomato juice . . . the friendly peace of Thursday night devotions . . . that first hall board . . . the night that Weil locked Golden Chain out . . . that late pot of coffee in the kitchen . . . the blind dates that turned out well, and the ones that didn't . . . the house meeting that ended up being the best of the year with Dean Taylor as guest . . . to buy, or not to buy; that is the question of the TV set . . . "second floor, Second Floor, SECOND FLOOR!" . . . wistful good-byes to the lucky

girls who graduated in January, perhaps a little envious too . . . "Who blew the fuse?" . . . the alarm clock that fell down on the job . . . the spheres that are only the tops of the umbrellas on rainy days, and nights . . . signing out and in, and sometimes forgetting both . . . the shower that went hot and cold, mostly cold . . . the shower in the parlor for the lucky bride-to-be . . . watching the wrecker at the eleventh hour on Sunday; wonder what the poor guy was doing behind the dorm? . . . the "before Starnes" rush . . . tension at exam time, with garlic cheese and onion sandwiches—we can't go out for days anyway . . . the odor of popcorn mingled with the slow turning of pages . . . two calls, two phones, one girl: Whoopee! . . . the Jamison "flood" booming with the velocity of Old Faithful . . . the barricade of laundry in front of the corner room on Monday night . . . the one fire drill when all the showers are running full blast . . . Sunday morning breakfast, a la dormitory kitchen . . . one floor, forty doors, one "Dream Time" . . . "has anybody seen my typewriter?" . . . the surprise company, just after a session with a Toni . . . the uncertainty that comes with the first 'unsat' . . . And beside us through it all, the good and the bad, stand the three who guide us; our counselor, our house president, and her assistant. During the year we do all those things that Woman's College students do, and we don't often stop to think about the women behind the women behind the ivy-covered walls. But now, to each house president and counselor, we offer special thanks. We couldn't have made it without you, and we won't forget you.

A mid-morning vacant period finds freshmen, upper-classmen, and practice teachers in the Soda Shop.

W.C. in the fall—and a lonely figure walking in the rain.

Spring is on the way!—or so these five Juniors seem to think as they cast away socks and shoes to enjoy the fishpond.

Juliette Canada, Mota Barack, Kathy Keller, and Nan Young enjoy a relaxed gossip session during a dance intermission.

PHYLLIS FRANKLIN
President

Our final year offered us much, and we joined together to give in return our concerted efforts, vitality, and time. The importance of general education struck us, and we worked to leave behind us our ideals and ideas for our sisters here and those yet to come.

As the calendar moved along with unaccustomed swiftness, we adopted the old adage of "last but far from least"—seeing our last Junior Show, leaving for our last Christmas vacation, carrying out our last class project at the Victory Theater, marching down Aycock's aisle from the last Mass Meeting to the strains of "May God build for you a harmony . . ." and bidding "Toodle-loo, so long, good-bye . . ." taking the exams when "final" has a new meaning for us.

We of the class of 1954 came into our own with humility toward our parents, our teachers, our class leaders, our friends. Through their efforts and understanding we have come this far. As (practice) teachers many of us draw confidently upon what they have given us; as future wives and mothers, we go forth well-supplied to educate the family; as professionalists, we go forth to create ideas inspired and trained by them. With the strength they have given us, we, who in four years have seen a cold war begin and end, enter a world of cold peace, determined to right it.

Seniors At Last!

We came in with a new decade. We leave after four years, having made only a small dent in time, but a large collection of experiences, accomplishments, and memories.

We walked the planks . . . first to the library, to the Home Economics Building . . . then to Coleman Gym . . . we still walk them to the Infirmary! En route, we got mud on our shoes; once there we acquired what only strong minds and great books have to offer. We danced to Link Smith's Orchestra first in Rosenthal, then in Coleman, finally in Elliott Hall; to jukeboxes in the dorms; to bop records in our rooms. With amazing consistency, we've fallen in and out of love, making our grand finale in Dr. Shiver's Marriage course!

We donned the green jacket in '51, and with it came the responsibilities of upperclassmen. Unlimited weekends made for a big collection of memories; unlimited lights made for long hours of cramming . . . and bridge! In retrospect, it was the Forgotten Year, the Year of Discouragement. Term papers became longer and more frequent, and parallel reading made the library our home. But June came, and waving good-bye to our sister class, we saw a goal come clearly into focus.

We returned in '52 and promptly set out on a "Mad-cap Mission." Aycock became more to us than the scene of Tuesday chapel and the lecture series. Elliott Hall opened its gleaming glass doors and became "the" building; Hall Ball was born and became "the" game. Sunday, for years only twenty-three hours and forty minutes long, finally became a full twenty-four. That June, we became "the" class—the class of 1954.

The things we did from then on had an unfamiliar finality about them: electing a May Queen from our own ranks, watching the red-robed choir at the Christmas midnight program, putting on the Senior Show, attending a Junior-Senior given in our honor, addressing graduation invitations, planning for the Senior Ball, and being active participants in Class Day. Although victims of small painful twangs when we didn't even show in the March elections, when exams ended and we still couldn't pack, we set no limits on our anticipation and finally . . . it was May 31!

We had become alumnae, parties to the Latin term which simply means "those who have gone away." And the things we do have an air of being "first" now, not last and certainly not final. This was another beginning, perhaps the best of all.

Corrie waits for the phone to ring for one of her Winfield girls.

This is probably the busiest phone in Greensboro.

Students crowd around the exam schedule.

"Red and white our colors e'er shall be." The red is slightly faded, and the white is yellowish-grey, but our jackets still make us pretty outstanding . . . especially Freshman Week with ASK ME ribbons pinned on the lapels. Now we were the Big Sisters!

Then the "Red Coats" sang their way through "the best Junior Show ever," and enthusiastically sold their booklet, "Oh, College Dear To You."

Suddenly we sat up and looked at ourselves, and saw just how far the Red and White had come . . . why, we only have one year to go!

Conceited? . . . Maybe, just a little . . . Proud? . . . You're mighty right we are! . . . After all, we've come a long way . . . We've been the guardian angels of the shiny-new Freshman and Commercial Classes, wearing down their resistance (and their shoe leather!) on those twenty-mile hikes Freshman Week . . . then tried to win back their affection with our "P. S. Send Money" all-girl, slightly musical fashion (?) show . . . Finally got involved in our majors . . . or should we say "entangled"? . . . Counted the steps as we trudged to Curry and Education classes at eight o'clock on those cold bleak mornings . . . Never dared overcut Soda Shop 315! . . . gotta' have that java and cig . . . Came close to flunking out during those six weeks of practice for "A Place In The Shade," as Simon Legree Sally Powell kept us jumping, dancing, and singing . . . Then in November we opened in Aycock and presto! . . . we're famous! . . . with stardust swimming around in our eyes. . . . "Why, we oughta' go on Broadway!" . . . "Maybe those hours spent in the Old Library weren't wasted after all!" . . . "What am I ever going to do with my time?" . . . Before Christmas those class rings arrived . . . and we realized that June '55 wasn't too far in the future . . . Old Saint Nick added "sparklers" to many left hands . . . and more people signed up for Sociology 335! . . . Exams, exams, exams . . . "If I flunk I'll just die!" . . . FRANCES OVERMAN
President

Now we very definitely have our own officers, and we've had them all year. No more Junior president for the Sophomore class. This has been a big year for the Class of 1956, and a formative one. We started off our Freshman year united, but a little shaky. Now we've got our class spirit, and our members have entered whole-heartedly into the various campus activities, becoming important people in the framework of the college community. We can judge a little better what we want to get out of our four years at W.C., and we're relating our interests and picking our major fields. We know that next year some of us will be Junior advisors, and others will write the class show, and we're preparing for the responsibilities before us.

This has been a year of diamonds and fraternity pins. Many girls did not come back after their Freshman year, and still others will leave at the end of this year. After Christmas vacation the dining halls and dorms were filled with girls oohing and aahing over rings, and some of us could be heard picking out the Wedding March with one finger on the dorm pianos. Apparently Chancellor Graham was right when, at the first chapel hour that the Class of 1956 attended, he said ours was the best-looking class he had seen. Well, we think so, anyway.

But here is the end of our Sophomore year at college. It will be remembered by all of us as a year filled with fun, hard work, many new friends, and wonderful times. It will also be remembered in some way by the little Korean orphan we adopted this year, and by the members of the administration and the advisors who worked with us. And, happy or sad as the realization makes us, it means that our college career is half over, and we have only two more years to go.

Class of 1954

Stairway To The Stars.

Where's the soap, Peggy?

Don't you think we have charm?

The Gals

"Double!"

This was the gray year, charcoal gray, of course. This year we changed from a bunch of bright green freshmen to a group clothed in fashion's biggest color—gray. How we waited for those jackets! October passed, and still they hadn't come, and we accosted Jodie Meachum and every officer of our class, but they just shook their respective heads mournfully. Finally, right before the first snow, and after Thanksgiving, they arrived. The cold weather didn't deter us. We wore them while we shivered, and some hardy (or foolhardy) Sophomore, warmed by class pride, wore them through rain and sleet. They were worth waiting for, though, because all heads turned as we raced through the dining halls. Even those girls who fought so valiantly for black jackets (remember that class meeting when every Sophomore showed up wanting a different color jacket?) were satisfied. Now our jackets are a familiar sight on campus, but to us they will always be special, because they're the symbol of our class.

Although this year we were separated into different dorms, we stuck together as a class. We built a "Stairway to the Stars," and the class that last year initiated Elliott Hall with its Coronation Ball, held an even more successful dance. The lights, music, formal dresses, and beautiful surroundings seemed a dream, and midnight came too soon. But then, it always does.

... And a sink in every room?

In Gray

We've had a lot of fun, but there's also been some work. We thought that the worst was over last year, when Freshman History was a thing of the past, only to step into American History, Chaucer, and Wordsworth. But now we're more sure of ourselves, and we don't have to tremble at the approach of exams, or at the end of every six weeks period. We know W.C. now, and we know the teachers and policies. We're truly a part of it now, and somehow that makes things easier.

This year we were the rats who sponsored Rat Day, and we could laugh at the Freshmen with their laundry bags full of books, and lipsticked foreheads. Last year seemed far away, and it's a little more difficult to understand why we were in such awe of the upperclassmen. Although we have more work, we can handle it better, and there are always plenty of gray jackets in the Soda Shop. We're busy choosing (and changing) our majors, in preparation for next year, and are plaguing the seniors with questions about practice teaching and coordinating. It's fun now to go back to the dorms we occupied last year, to see our old rooms and the new girls in them (they never do fix the rooms as nicely as we did).

There's a lot to remember of our Sophomore year, because it was such a good one, and deep inside we know that the Junior year of the Class of 1956 will be even better.

September 10, 1953 . . . Greensboro, North Carolina . . . and we, the Class of 1957, found ourselves suddenly in the midst of unpacking and taking placement tests. "Is this college?" were the doubtful queries. We were greeted warmly by our counselors and house presidents, and in the first assembly by Miss Mossman and Miss Marion Sifford, acting as "Chancellor pro-tem," we were inspired to hope by Miss Taylor's reminder that 1957's President of Student Government was then sitting in the audience. To the unfamiliar strains of "We raise our voices; let them swell," we witnessed the S.G.A. introductory program and on a lighter note, to the tune of "P.S., Send Money," the skit and party by the Junior Class and Elliott Hall Council. Registration was finally completed, and classes began. Miss Burns and the Juniors guided for a while, but soon we were on our own.

The Freshman Commission was elected, and this group carried out plans for a return party for the "sister class." The theme was Circus, and a good time was had by all—from elephants to spectators. Suddenly it was time for a class song and we were overwhelmed at the response to the song contest—five excellent entries.

One was chosen, and this time to the tune of "In harmony we raise our voice," the new class officers were elected. Eleanor Butler, Chris Velonis, Jo Ruth Bartholomew, and Catharine May, were chosen to lead.

Having successfully completed our first exams, we now looked forward with interest to the activities second semester would offer. Working hard on our plans for the Freshman Formal, our University Sermon, and other class projects, we were drawn closer together and felt for the first time that we really knew each other.

As this, our first year, drew to a close, we faced the fact that we were now a class "with an identity." No longer would we respond to the seemingly degrading statement, "those freshmen!" We were on our way, and "this was really college."

Witches brew      nothing like a nice cup of hot tea.

But we're really studying, Unni!

"Freshmen

Jan studies in solid comfort      laundry bags, no less!

The official literature during the summer, the letter from our house president, those from the Y.W.C.A. and others, all assured us that we would soon feel "right at home" at W.C. That first night in the dorm we swore it could never be!

The handbook became our Bible; but no matter how hard we tried, those call-downs seemed to pile up, and eventually we "earned" our first hall board.

The newness began to wear off, however; and with the understanding help of our Junior advisors, rules eventually became second nature. The campus, which at first loomed so large in our minds, surprisingly enough became more compact. In fact, after we had gained a speaking acquaintance with each tree on campus, we felt we knew all there was to know of W.C.

Classes became easier, and we soon learned that every word the teacher spoke was not the gospel truth and did not have to be quoted verbatim in our notes. We even learned to cut open our frogs and worms without feeling sick or squeamish. The end of our first semester in college came swiftly and with it the first of "those" exams of which we had heard so much. Somehow we managed to survive them and afterwards had to admit that they weren't really so bad after all.

Second semester was here at last and with it came unlimited weekends, the welcome end of closed study, and the feeling that we were at long last catching on. We were losing those forlorn expressions and were eagerly looking forward to the freshman dance, C.U. Day, and weekends at Carolina, State, Davidson, and Duke. No longer must we think back, trying to remember if we had already taken that one precious cut in each class, for most of us had earned two or three cuts by working extra hard the first semester. We still felt rather guilty leaving for the movie with a date or bunch of girls after seven-thirty.

Obviously they've been stood up

Entertaining our Big Sisters, the Juniors.

The end of our first year was drawing nigh. Having survived closed study, rat day, the dreaded 101 classes, and exams, we felt that we were really a part of W.C. It wasn't so bad after all, and we were actually looking forward to our next year here when we would claim the envious title of upperclassmen. Why, we could even cross campus and actually know some of the girls we passed! We belonged, and it was wonderful!

HAIL! HAIL!

Here For Just A Year

From all parts of North Carolina the Commercialists migrate in September with the rest of the prospective Woman's College Freshmen. When we come to Woman's College, we are confronted with the same freshman life except for our curriculum. Ours consists of a concentrated one year commercial course, but do not think for a moment that we do not try to become a vital asset to the Woman's College campus.

We come to W. C. with a definite goal in mind, that of preparing ourselves to be the future secretaries of America, and we base our class activities around this theme. This year such people as the world's champion typist for six years in a row and successful secretaries in Greensboro have come to speak to us. Mr. Phillips gave an inspirational talk and Mrs. Jester shared her ideas. Meyers Department Store sponsored a style show which we presented with the four year business department.

On the social side of our college year, we entertained at dorm parties and dances at Halloween, Christmas, and the final Commercial Formal. The class revealed many talents other than sixty words a minute. At one of the class parties held in the gym, some impressive vocalists such as Marjette Bumgardner and Janice Curby gave a rendition of the latest hit tunes. A flapper dance team from Kirkland lured Mr. Fergerson to join in the Charleston, and Patsy Bernhard gave an authentic Hawaiian dance.

After experiencing the life of a freshman for one semester, we assumed the privileges and responsibilities of an upperclassman for our last semester. Participation in student government and organization led to the mature thinking of a college woman. We exercised our powers in dormitory government, legislature, and the election of class and campus officers. The possibility of obtaining college life in one year was accomplished by this commercial class. With a certificate in hand, as young women, we left the Woman's College with a final "All hail, hail to W. C.—We pledge always to thee—love and loyalty."

Better watch it, gals!!!

Off for a big weekend.

Sunday afternoon date — on Kirkland's swing.

Future Secretaries . . .

Dear W. C.,

Thank you for the invitation you extended us in the spring of '53 to spend a few months with you. The weeks between September and June flew by in such a succession of joyous and instructive days that it seemed we were hardly here before it was time to go.

Remember that first day when we invaded your silent, peaceful campus with our bags, teddy bears, and ukuleles? How strange everything seemed, but in no time at all our shyness vanished over a friendly game of bridge or a get together in some room and we felt a part of the college campus life.

There were the dorm parties and dances, C. U. Days at Carolina, State, and here on our own campus, and of course don't forget the eventful day that marked our complete acceptance here and found us in strange costumes bowing to the commands of our upperclassmen.

These and numerous other extracurricular activities filled our spare time, but that bell called a "goal," (or should we say "gold") was still ringing in the back of our minds reminding us of our main objective in being here.

Ah yes, how many packs of cigarettes we smoked, how many cokes we drank to help us survive those eight weeks of machines, balance sheets that wouldn't balance, and those impossible shorthand notes! But all was not in vain. The day finally came and the coveted Certificates were rewarded the faithful workers.

Our balance sheet for the year showed that our assets, knowledge, balanced perfectly with our liabilities to our parents and the generous proprietorship of good times and experience gained.

The unbelievable happens—SNOW!!!

Commercials get fitted for those pretty white jackets.

Flowered robes must be in style.

The long climb up from the basement!"

With May flowers those last few weeks blossomed and disappeared in the rush of final exams, obtaining jobs, and those extra privileges. Suddenly we found ourselves in Aycock waiting eagerly, but a little sadly, for that last dismissal. And then it was "so long" to you, W. C., for we Commercials will never say

Good-bye

The most dreaded of all commercial classes—machines lab.

Woman's College Choir

Our college choir, under the direction of Mr. George Thompson, adds a great deal of enjoyment to our college life. The one hundred and fifty girls from all classes provides special music for chapel programs, Arts Forum, Founders Day, graduation, and University Sermons.

The Christmas concert is always the favorite and each year capacity audiences fill Aycock to hear the seasonal music once again. The red and white robes have become a symbol of the Christmas season for most of the campus.

The Choir has been an asset to us by making us aware of the beauty of music.

Greensboro Orchestra

Under the direction of George W. Dickieson, conductor, the Greensboro Orchestra offers us the best of talent from the community, students, and faculty. Each year this organization awards us with its presentation of "The Messiah," concerts, and various performances, giving each student an opportunity to become aware of and appreciate the best in the field of music

W. C. Chamber Music Players

A group of students experienced in the use of string instruments make up the W. C. Chamber Music Players. Under the guidance of George W. Dickieson, the group studies pieces using wind and string instruments. Performing with the Greensboro Orchestra as well as alone, they have presented programs in numerous cities and at Woman's College. Our interest and enjoyment of music has been furthered through the work of this organization and their concerts.

All The World's A Stage

The philosophy of student drama as it has been practiced by the Play-Likers this year, is toward the world's being a stage, at least in a modified form. The program has been one of theatre education for all, both participants and audience, and it has been highly successful.

Staffed by three faculty members, the organization presented such plays during the year as Shaw's "The Apple Cart" and Chekov's "The Three Sisters," both superior plays which challenged the workers of every area involved. These plays have truly exemplified the fact that drama is a combination of all the larger phases of the Arts: acting, music, painting, dance, and design. This is particularly pertinent in view of the fact that 1953-1954 marked the first year of the Festival of the Arts.

Many faculty members of other departments offered assistance in their respective fields. Mr. Randall Jarrell prepared a new translation of "The Three Sisters" for Play-Liker production. Mrs. Dee Boquist designed and supervised the execution of the costumes for the first two shows of the year. Original music by Mr. Elliot Weisgarber was a highlight of those same productions. Miss Virginia Moomaw choreographed dances to be included in "The Three Sisters." Designed by Mr. Willard Barchinger, Mr. Wayne Bowman, and Mr. W. P. Crews, the scenery of the plays was acclaimed among the best in Play-Liker history.

Mr. Giles Playfair, a visiting professor on the campus, was head of the Department of Theatre. He is British born and bred and is with the British Broadcasting Company and Television Network. Apart from his directing talents, he performed in several of the plays and is well-known for his books. His principal aim for the Play-Likers has been student stimulation. Assisting him in the activities of the group have been Miss Kathryn England and Mr. Wayne Bowman.

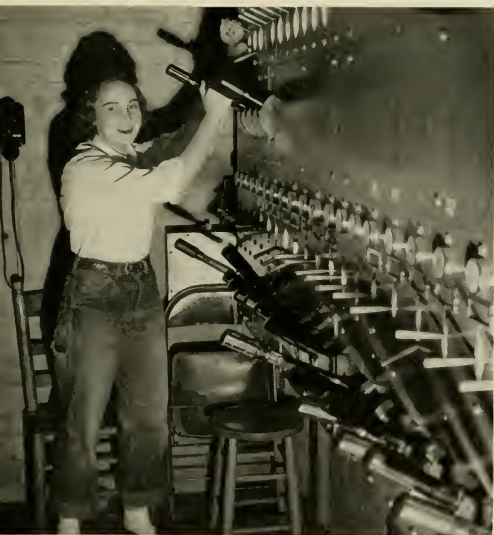

Behind the finished performance has gone the work of the students. They are concerned with such phases of theatre as staging, lighting, make-up, costumes, scenery, house and business management, sound effects, and properties. The girls who assist on these crews are all Play-Likers, and from these come the members of Masqueraders, the honorary drama group. The organization this year had Peggy Britt, Florence Bowden, and Thomasine Strother in the three executive positions. Alpha Psi Omega, the national honorary fraternity, has had for the greater part of the year, as its acting members Jean Houston, Peggy Britt, and Barbara Bragg, who was director of the Woman's College Cast.

Recreation Association

The Recreation Association, administered by and for the students, is the focal group of out-of-class recreational activities. Coaches, club presidents, and cabinet members work to provide an all-round program for the campus, and "A sport for every girl and a girl for every sport" and "Play with the R. A. today and every day" have become recognized slogans. Well-supported by campus spirit, the R. A. has taken full advantage of after-school time. Crisp fall afternoons find the athletic field full of participants in speedball, hockey and lacrosse. Recreational sports get off to an early start with the fall volleyball tournament. W. C.'s own creation, Hallball, has again fostered the unrelenting spirit between Shaw and Mendenhall. On Saturday afternoons, the bowling alleys, the Hobby Shop and the terrace "skating rink" of Coleman Gym hum with activity, while inside the gym, racquets and birdies are involved in badminton games.

A Sport For

In Winter sports, basketball claims the spotlight with the Co-Of Club busily scheduling games, timers, scorers, and officials. For the less energetic, bridge instructions and tournaments take place in Coleman's student lounge. Preparation for Gym Meet includes practicing stunts and tumbling. With Spring in the air, activity moved outside to the athletic field for softball, tennis, and archery. Clubs are an integral part of the Association. Dolphin and Seal feature synchronized swimming, water ballets, stunts, and spectacular diving exhibitions in their annual Water Pageant. The Prom-enaders extend open invitations for square dancing with students from neighboring colleges. Excellence of performance can only indicate the work which the Caller's Club, the Golf Club, the Tap Dance Club, and the Modern Dance groups accomplish during the year. The life-saving course offered each semester provides life guards for the pool which is open for recreational swimming the entire year.

And away we go . . . !

How could such a little ball cause so much confusion!

Every Girl . . .

The R.A. acts as hostess to neighboring colleges for play days in such sports as speedball, field hockey, basketball, and softball. Often W.C. students carry their team spirit to other colleges for a play day. Gym Meet is "the biggest and bestest" of all. The stunts, dances, and performances made up the most popular event of this year—The Olympics of W.C. Weekend retreats to R.A. Camp provide off-campus relaxation. At the end of each season, a Seasonal Dessert is held. Honorary varsity teams for the current sports are announced and platters awarded to the dorms leading in participation and total points for the season. At the Spring Banquet in North Dining Hall, faculty and students come together to mark the end of the year's activities. The outstanding Senior Physical Education major and non-major and the Honor Group, girls of outstanding service, interest, and sportsmanship, and attitude, are honored.

Watch the shins, girls!

Two points????

Social Science Forum

Endeavoring to throw light on the problems which the United States faces today as the strongest nation of the free world, the seventh annual Harriet Elliott Social Science Forum presented a discussion of the topic United States: World Power or World Leader? on March 18 and 19. Participants were Mario Einaudi, Ernest Gross, Joseph C. Harsch, and Alex Inkeles, who led round table groups and pooled their knowledge in panel discussions.

The Forum, held in honor of Dean Harriet Elliott, presents the opportunity for students to hear experts in the field of international relations and aims toward stimulating their interest in such affairs.

Nancy Benson acted as student chairman of the Forum committee and Lyda Gordon Shivers as faculty chairman.

Inter-Faith Forum

"Faith for Our Times" was the theme of the 1954 Inter-Faith Forum sponsored by the Inter-Faith Council. Panel discussion, exhibits, and worship services were planned by the thirteen committees who were led by Nancy Jean Hill, general chairman, and advised by Mrs. Ruth Clarke. Some of the topics for discussion were "World Problems that Challenge Our Faith," "How Intelligent Can Our Faith Be?" and "Faith Meets the Challenges to College Students Today."

The eleventh annual Festival of the Arts was held from February 12 to April 24.

Formerly the Arts Forum, the Festival was extended this year over an eight-week period in the hope that more students and faculty would be able to participate in more activities, and that better integration with normal campus life would result. The critics were: for dance, Emily Frankel and Mark Ryder; for writing, Elizabeth Bowen and John Crowe Ransom; for music, Halsey Stevens; and for art, James Johnson Sweeney. Anton Chekov's "The Three Sisters" was produced for the drama session.

Chairman of the Festival was Katherine Taylor; student secretary was Terrill Schukraft.

GOLDEN CHAIN

Golden Chain is an honorary organization that seeks to recognize those students who have been outstanding in the qualities embodied in its seven golden links . . . Leadership, scholarship, service, judgment, tolerance, magnanimity, and character. And yet it does more than confer honor, for it offers to the campus leaders an opportunity to unite in order to render still further service.

Although few are aware of the important work which Golden Chain does, each year the members serve as ambassadors to the high schools of North Carolina to tell the girls of the benefits of Woman's College. Highlights of the year for the members are the annual spring letter to the old members, and the Graduation Day breakfast given by the present members for those who have already graduated.

Just as the advisers point with pride at Golden Chain, it is proud of Miss Bernice Draper, Miss Ellen Griffin, and Dr. Warren Ashby who have served so well this year as advisers. The honorary members are Mrs. Julius Cone, Dr. W. C. Jackson, Mrs. Betty Jester, Miss Katherine Taylor, and Dr. Edward Kidder Graham.

... my four years at "W. C."

September 10, 1950 and 750 green gals piled into the residence halls of the Woman's College confident only in the fact that their actions and remarks portrayed the class colors of '54 with undiluted accuracy. Freshman Week . . . need we say more . . . tests in the library . . . the familiar friendliness of the "Ask Me" signs . . . pictures in the basement of the Science building . . . house meetings, house meetings, and yet more house meetings . . . rules, rules, rules . . . lines for everything from breakfast to baths . . . and the Junior Class offering of a "Friendship Cake." Then if that week weren't enough to break the morale of the greatest percentage, registration day dawned with the temperature at least twenty degrees above that of July -. Somehow all those plans for ten o'clock classes on Monday shattered into more pieces than an atom, and we found ourselves going to class ALL DAY-EVERY DAY under the legendary slave-drivers. Oh well, four more months and registration rolls around again; better luck next time murmured the unsympathetic Sophomores. Freshman medicals brought forth from Dr. Collings the comment that "extra pounds were not uncommon among the new students." She should take a good look at us now!! Our first CU Day was highlighted by a speech from Choo-Choo and 770 of us took off via Carolina Trailways to Chapel Hill with misty-eyed notions of how many good looking boys would be anticipating our arrival. Founder's Day honored the Chancellors of the present and past . . . LIFE came to W.C. to take a picture that was never used (we all cancelled our twenty-year subscriptions) . . . the Freshman Mixer looked like a Junior High School dance with males and females staring across Rosenthal at each other . . . we sang "Good-night Irene," "My Heart Cries For You," "Tennessee Waltz," and "My Foolish Heart." The Social Science Forum on "Public Opinion in a Democracy" impressed us with the realization that there was more to W.C. than classes, coffee in the Soda Shop, and gab sessions . . . Dean Taylor announced that we were the only college in the country with a "football scholarship" . . . and we became the first woman's college to have a Young Republicans Club . . . Hey, Ma, look at us!! Between all this we ate tuna fish by candlelight after "lights out," studied in the bath tubs, learned that the accepted designation on Saturday night was the Carolina and the Castle, made fudge on the radiators, acquired a taste for garlic cheese and onion sandwiches from Monday through Thursday, realized that house meetings were planned so you could turn the heel on Joe's socks, and counted the days until Thanksgiving. We were of the old generation . . . absolutely no rats and only two weekends. The Infirmary handed out more medicals first semester than in the three years since then. Let's face it gal, not only were we depression babies, but we were born a year too soon. But in spite of this, we elected a freshman commission to help Louise Mooney, chose Crawford's "Character Through Knowledge," learned our class song, and tried to explain those Unsats with "But, Mother, just everyone got them! Never before or since has Thanksgiving held the meaning it did that year even if Dook did beat Carolina. The Korean Conflict hit home harder than ever as our boy friends and brothers joined the ranks of Uncle Sam, and Dean Taylor emphasized the importance of education . . . into the wastebasket went those WAVE folders. The faculty discussed "What's Wrong With Education at W.C." We elected Emily as our president, heard our first Christmas Concert, and went home to await the arrival of the man in the long white whiskers. Food, sleep, dances, and fun . . . but it all ended with a bang one Sunday with exams less than three weeks away. New Year's Resolutions contained detailed plans for STUDY, STUDY, STUDY, but reading day we were still cramming in history dates and praying. Sleep became a forgotten luxury; soup, peanut butter, and cokes the accepted diet; and still Miss Ryan told us to go to a movie and forget it all. Gosh, she had a lot of faith in the old memory. Somehow it was over and we were back at registration again . . . what a vicious circle!!!! Someone tried to burn down Bailey between semesters with a cigarette . . . nice try, but no luck. Golden Chain tapping in Aycock was inspirational . . . general education was in the air. "Come get your flu shots," cried the Infirmary as an epidemic spread in England and Scotland . . . can those germs really swim???? The old Weil-Winfield rivalry changed to the Country Club vs. the Waldorf Astoria . . . Cotten buried courtesty . . . the Junior Show professed that "Women Are Here To Stay" and we agreed . . . Snooky Ookums became the campus by-word . . . Mona Lisa had her litter of seven in the physiology lab . . . the gals in Kirkland and Womans moved their beds out on the porches and appeared at 7:00 o'clock breakfast expounding the marvels of fresh air . . . Arts Forum and again we eagerly tried to take it all in . . . the Plantation burned and a few of the lucky ones with regular Sunday night dates wore mourning for days . . . Phi Beta Kappa not only honored the Seniors, but Dr. E. K. G. as well. We danced to "Younger Than Springtime" in Rosenthal with Jeannette Snyder doing the planning and practically held a class meeting at Hanging Rock the next day. We had our first taste of sun, sand, and three-dozen radios all blaring "Saphronia B" at Coney Island, and liked it . . . felt our importance as we helped choose Rainey and Bullard and defied the rest of the campus by voting to retain the societies. Exams rolled around, but we were old hands by now and the last exam just meant that the beach was that much closer. We went away singing "Too Young" and mentally practicing the phrase "rising sophomore."

One down and three to go, but now we were upperclassmen!!!! And one ~~surprised~~ look at the freshmen prompted "We couldn't have been that green!" A few of us finally chose a major and the rest registered for Typing 211. The first ID cards produced portraits that even a mother couldn't love . . . and somehow we all had a minimum of one cut . . . to be saved ~~for~~ Homecoming weekends, of course. The Sophomore-Senior party under the title "A Night With The Ads" brought out Maidenforms, Campbell Soup Varieties, and even Hot Dog Food signs . . . we had unlimited weekends, no lights out, and two ~~even~~ o'clocks a week . . . Senator Robert Taft spoke and ~~split~~ the campus into Republicans vs. Democrats (just guess which faction was in the minority) . . . in spite of rain, hail, and freezing weather we proudly wore those green jackets from the minute they arrived . . . the Home Economics building opened to the relief of both Home Ec and business majors, and the Science and Physical Education majors came to supper smelling of formaldehyde and explaining the anatomy of the cat. The Social Science Forum concentrated on China and we concentrated on taking more courses under Dr. Pfaff. On the side we took in everything from Bertram Russell to Billy Graham . . . went to the circus to see real live elephants and eat cotton candy, and of course counted the days to Thanksgiving and Christmas. The opening of Coleman Gymnasium offered bowling alley, pool tables, and something new to do on Saturday afternoon. This time we danced to the theme "Midnight in Paris" in Coleman and watched Betty Jean Hagan, dance chairman, and Jean Williamson, class president, lead the figure. Religious Emphasis week offered food for thought in the theme "What Does Religion Offer In A World of Conflict." The First GU Winter Playday was held at State College . . . exams for the third time . . . and we agreed with the old theory that Sophomore year is the hardest. Nine of our class originated the "Open Door Policy" and landed in Judy Board for it . . . the Junior Show "Agape" was completed only by Pat Marcus having to stand up and laugh when the record stuck, and we began to dream of giving the best show W.C. had ever seen. We discovered the smoke-filled Soda Shop packed each hour with a new crowd trying to gulp down enough coffee to last through the next hour's lecture . . . we hounded our P.O. boxes (and Miss G.) for even a post card from Saturday night's blind date . . . and hung out windows to hear the fraternities serenade. Ray Anthony came South for Midwinters at every college that could afford him . . . the "Saints Come Marching In" . . . ukes were still the rage . . . source themes forced us to the library . . . and the Bloodmobile made its first visit to the campus . . . we sang "Little White Cloud That Cried" but only Johnny Ray could cry as he sang it . . . and it snowed!!!!!! The Florida natives stared in utter bewilderment as blue jeans appeared on front campus, faculty and students alike threw snowballs, and cardboard boxes served as sleds on the hill beside the Science Building . . . the cherry blossoms sprinkled College Avenue with color and beauty . . . Spring Vacation didn't include Easter so everyone just cut and went back home again . . . the campus waited with locked doors and windows for the rumored party raid . . . and the next-to-be forgotten Adjacent Streets Proclamation only boosted the Castle's popularity. Suddenly we were singing "May God Build For You A Harmony," carrying the Daisy Chain, and bidding our sister class farewell.

We returned this time harmonizing "They Say," serving as Junior Advisors, and wondering what to major in now that Bardolph, O'Boyle, and Pfaff were all on leaves of absence. We substituted Painter's novel course for English 212, Sociology 335 (better known as marriage) for Spanish, and took few major courses on the side. The Biology Department eagerly awaited the arrival of Dr. Cutter, the Home Ec building boasted of their new Dean Roberts, and Philosophy courses soared in popularity under Dr. Proctor. Rose Farah called our class meetings to order, and Mike strove to teach the monotonous to "Toodle-lo." November 12 went down in the history books as the birth date of musical comedy on campus and we collapsed after weeks of practicing for "Madcap Missions." Bennett Cerf entertained us . . . two freshmen got locked in the library (yep, they were Laura Coit girls) . . . CU Day was called off because of Polio . . .

... my four years at "W.C."

hall born was born and followed immediately by Shaw-Mendenhall rivalry . . . TV sets were moved in for that long, long night in the parlor while we waited for the Presidential election returns . . . we added pounds eating everyone's Valentine candy . . . and counting noses made us realize that although some had transferred, others had married, but there were still over five-hundred left to carry on. The Middle East was the topic for the Social Science Forum with Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt adding the final touches. The Faculty cavorted in honor of the Campus Purse Drive . . . McIver House was doomed to fall . . . we received post cards with semester final grades on them . . . initiated faculty evaluation . . . and rolled up our sleeves as the Bloodmobile returned. The day after we ordered a lifetime supply of stationery with our box number printed on it, the Carolinian announced that Elliott Hall would open both its gleaming doors and the brand new post office. We danced there to "Moon Mist" under the planning of Anne Ford. We used the preferential ballot in class elections, elected our own to the big SGA offices, had the first CU Day here, and stayed out until 12:00 on Sunday nights. Then suddenly it was spring again and we rushed to the sun court in preparation for the Junior-Senior . . . it was great even if we did have to pay for it . . . May Day was beautiful . . . and our sides ached for days from laughing at the Senior Show. With just enough time to peer over the Seniors' shoulders at the Schiffman exhibit and cool our toes in Pröndecki Lake, we sang "Oh Happy Day" and took off in a cloud of dust for our last free summer.

This time it was "our" Pre-School Conference under the leadership of Emily, Kay, Fish, and a dozen others, and, my, we were getting possessive about it all. We unpacked in the familiar rooms, took the front seats in Chapel, steadied the shoulders to assume the responsibilities of leadership . . . plus co-ordinating on the side . . . and started the last short year. There were still the weekends at Chapel Hill, Duke, Davidson, Wake Forest, and other colleges to look forward to, but there were also the week nights crammed full with only coffee and cigarettes to keep us awake. Practice teaching, lesson plans, recitals, Graduate Record exams, meetings, and lectures seemed to pile higher each week until stack permits were no longer a privilege, but a necessity. In the back of our minds was the question "Can the Freshman look up to us the way we looked up to the class of 1951? The challenge only heightened our responsibility. But we still managed to take time out for the important thing . . . the Detroit Symphony . . . Whitmore and Lowe . . . Anna Russell . . . Arts Festival . . . Social Science Forum . . . Playlikers production of The Three Sisters . . . Coraddi . . . The Caro- linian . . . general education. We were proud when W. C. played host to the Regional Student Union Conference, NSA, and numerous other conventions. The purpose and depth of education was instilled more firmly than ever. The publication heads went to Chicago; the Physical Education majors to Biloxi; the Recreation majors to Florida. But there was also the other side . . . we chose our outstanding eight, a May Queen and her court, Senior Show Chairman, and mascots. Elliott Hall, now in full use, was a center of activity day and night. We took time out to admire the ever-growing collection of diamond rings and pins. We filled out application blanks, had interviews, and talked jobs until the mere mention of next year sent those still in the ranks of the unemployed into a state of panic. And we still had fun . . . no Saturday classes for the lucky ones . . . wearing the gray jackets for a day and realizing that we loved the battered-buttonless green ones . . . singing Christmas Carols by the tree on the terrace of Elliott . . . harmonizing on "Heart of My Heart" . . . practicing "Ham and Legs" until our throats ached, only to walk back to the dorms in the spring air singing "Old Seniors Never Die" . . . chatting at Wednesday afternoon Faculty-Student Coffee Hours . . . still taking Soda Shop 10:30 . . . making that last, last payment . . . walking the floor outside Legislature room for hours until the SGA election returns came in and we were sure we were leaving the place in good hands . . . making use of the unlimited cuts . . . watching the lucky ones try to pick a June wedding date that didn't conflict with four others . . . hiding the coffee pots and popcorn poppers from Mrs. Starnes . . . selling tickets to "The Thirteenth Letter" for the class project . . . having the Senior Physical that showed you were underweight, run down, and typically Senior . . . getting panic-stricken over the notice from the Registrar, only to find out that it was to fill out your application for a degree . . . "Yes Ma'am, Miss Tennant, I'll be glad to fill out six applications if necessary" . . . still looking for jobs, jobs, jobs . . . relaxing at night to Dream-time . . . writing letters to those boys who would soon be out of service and to those who would soon be going . . . fighting the nine o'clock rush in the P.O. and the one o'clock rush to South . . . ordering graduation invitations. We'll never forget those last few weeks . . . Phi Beta Kappa . . . Golden Chain . . . the Senior Show under Flo and Ragan as the biggest success yet . . . khaki uniforms and hunting for a title that would pass the censors . . . May Day with aqua dresses, red roses, and sunlight . . . the Junior-Senior proclaiming "It's May" . . . marching out of the last mass meeting behind Phyllis; perhaps it was a trifle sad, but gratifying too . . . the Senior Ball . . . Class Day . . . Baccalaureate . . . and GRADUATION!!!!
