As North Carolina moves toward a new era in education, The Woman's College prepares to make many changes in policy. There is an intrinsic excitement in this blueprint for the future, because it provides Woman's College with a chance to gain new heights of excellence. Yet students cannot help but think with sadness of the many small and wonderful aspects of life at W. C. that will necessarily be sacrificed to progress.

Through fleeting years

*and among friendships
true*

The girls on the hall, always willing to help you shop or dress for a dance . . . the friends with whom you exchange the day's news in the Soda Shop . . . the special confidantes with whom you explore attitudes, problems, and dreams.

Lead we our lives

Away to another school for a weekend party or off to church on Sunday morning—both representative of the individual lives which revolve around an educational institution which does not attempt to dictate how students spend their leisure time.

and wisdom's truth pursue

We are here to learn . . . not from classes and texts alone . . . but from informal conversations with our professors . . . the suggestions of our fellow students . . . independent work and research in lab and library, often involving long hours of trial and error.

Though memories fade

Time, like rain, washes away the dust of memories . . . already it is difficult to remember our campus without the new McIver building — Soda Shop — Strong and Moore Halls. Someday our entire college life will be seen in this hazy perspective.

Dreams will not die

Dreams may be altered somewhat in shape and scope . . . but they remain essentially the same. Graduation will mark the culmination of one dream . . . an exchange of rings will signify the first step in fulfilling another.

Seeking

to learn

We become increasingly aware of the rapid flow of our lives . . . and wonder if we will have time to investigate all we had hoped to learn. Forced to specialize, we think with regret of courses and books we cannot explore.

Life hurries by

And some golden day when years seem so few

*With goals
in hand...*

Signing the coveted contract . . . receiving the desired grant . . . bring a sense of great accomplishment . . . but also a feeling of nostalgia. For we are reminded that we have played only a minute role in the perpetuation of a great school.

*We'll turn
to you.*

For four long years we have called this campus "home." Graduation brings a sense of humility . . . and of gratitude. We realize W. C. has enhanced our lives . . . unlocked many doors for us . . . carved for itself a permanent place in our hearts and minds.

The academic segment of the Woman's College stands to profit most by the new policies.

Moving from college to full university status presents a challenge and motivation to students and faculty alike.

Already well-known for its academic excellence, our school will now have the means to develop its potential in many varied directions.

OTIS A. SINGLETARY
Chancellor of Woman's College

Quite at home on the Woman's College campus in this his second year, Chancellor Otis Singletary has proved he can provide the dynamic leadership needed by this institution. Each phase of college activity has received his attention in an effort to co-ordinate campus life. Facing an era of great educational change, Woman's College is indeed lucky to have such a forceful leader.

KATHERINE TAYLOR
Dean of Students

A Japanese enthusiast, the builder behind Elliott Hall, an expert in human relations — this is Miss Katherine Taylor, Dean of Students at Woman's College. Her appearances at the Founder's Day program, at class meetings, and at social functions embody the dignity of womanhood and thereby raise the dignity of Woman's College. A source of help to the student, a source of pride to the University — Dean Taylor.

Administration

MEREB E. MOSSMAN
Dean of the College

A dean and teacher whose real love is her work, whose favorite entertainment is chamber music, whose travels have been extensive, whose love for the mountains is exercised with frequent trips connected with her work, whose services abound among the faculty and student body of this campus, whose work in community service is well-known, whose friendliness is familiar to all — this is our Dean of the College, Mereb Mossman.

ART

Department Prepares Students For Varied Opportunities

THE MOMENT of critical analysis of one's own work is one of the most important and difficult moments to an art student.

The creative teaching of the staff of the Art Department is its most unique facet. Widely acclaimed, the Weatherspoon Gallery with its outstanding art comprises the department's most valuable asset.

When a student graduates from Woman's College with a major in art, she is qualified for various employment opportunities. For example, a graduate holding a B.A. or B.F.A. in Design for Advertising is capable of applying for a position in many fascinating fields, including window display, newspaper advertising, magazine advertising and illustration, and exhibition designing. A student, also holding a B.A. or B.F.A., with a major in Art History and Interpretation can easily be acceptable for employment as curator in a museum or art library. In this day when the need for educational instructors is so great, the Art Department of The Woman's College trains students, working for their B.A. or B.F.A., to be art teachers in primary and secondary schools. With additional graduate study, students may go on to fill positions as instructors in colleges and universities.

Opportunities are not in the least restricted, as one might candidly observe. Other opportunities include that of occupational therapist, medical instructor, recreational specialist, and draftsman.

Much Work To Be Done In New Research Laboratory

The space occupied in the Science Building by the Biology Department is a bustling, compact area and there is a constant search for more research space. This department is interested in blending training and research, and it is for this reason that Dr. Berkley and Dr. Roeder instituted the construction of the Cutter Memorial Laboratory. This well equipped laboratory has carrels where students can concentrate on studies and research space where they can do original research under the guidance of faculty members. Half of the research space in the Science Building is found in this laboratory.

The Biology Department trains pre-med students and medical technologists. Twenty percent of the department's majors continue into graduate work and each year, four or five of them receive assistantships or fellowships to do further work in biology.

WHILE WORKING TOGETHER in an afternoon lab session, these girls determine the speed of sound by the Kundt's Tube method.

CHEMISTRY

Many Chemistry Majors Are Utilized For Research

The majority of interest in the Chemistry Department is placed on analytical and physical chemistry and its associated equipment. This is the explanation for the large number of well trained chemistry majors that graduate from Woman's College and are employed with so much success in industrial chemical research. Approximately twenty-five percent of the chemistry majors enter graduate work at some later date.

Research is an important facet of the Chemistry Department. Last year, in conjunction with an honors program, one of the majors did much research on chromatography. There are, at present, two staff members engaged in research projects, one of which is in collaboration with the University at Chapel Hill.

PHYSICS

Major Curriculum Changes Take Place Next Year

The curriculum as planned in the Physics Department trains a student towards a career in industrial, governmental, or private research and in teaching. Majors are trained in laboratories such as the one begun last spring for the purpose of undergraduate research. Part of the outstanding equipment to be placed in this laboratory is a mass spectrometer with a low pressure vacuum system.

Next year, there will be three major curriculum changes in this department. The general physics course will become an eight semester hours course instead of six, and there will be two kinds of general physics courses taught. One of these will be aimed at satisfying the needs of the students in liberal arts and the other will be geared to the level of all science and mathematics majors. The electrical sequence for physics majors will also be rearranged to allow a full year's work instead of the previous one semester.

HOURS OF HARD WORK and much experimentation and research typically mark the four college years of a chemistry major

AN ELEMENTARY ASTRONOMY class is given a lecture on the equinox in relation to the position of stars and planets.

MATHEMATICS

Undergraduate Program In Mathematics Kept Up-To-Date

The Department of Mathematics offers a sound undergraduate major in mathematics, including work in modern algebra, advanced calculus, differential equations, statistics, foundations of geometry, and the history of mathematics. In addition to the major program, courses are offered which provide opportunities for students from all areas of the college to gain mathematical experience. The department also offers a course in elementary descriptive astronomy.

The program of this department is under constant surveillance, and changes are made in accordance with developments in mathematics. As an example, for the first time this year, as part of the new College Honor Program, an honors section of Math 121 is being taught; and a graduate course for present high school mathematics teachers is being offered.

TEST TUBES, flasks, beakers, and bottles line the shelves of the chemistry supply room.

New Major Involving Three Sequences To Be Offered

Beginning next semester, the Department of Drama and Speech will offer a major with three sequences: theater, general speech, and speech correction. When this plan is put into the curriculum, it will be the only major of its kind offered in North Carolina. This department also teaches the only course in creative dramatics in the state. This type of dramatics is concerned with improvising plays from stories and is the form of theater best suited for children through the eighth grade.

Another facet of the department that is also unique as far as the norms of the state are concerned, is the freshman speech testing program. An effort is made to survey the speech of all in-coming freshmen and acquaint them with their problems.

THE SPEECH laboratory with its individual rooms, microphones and tape recorders is a familiar sight to speech students.

ENGLISH

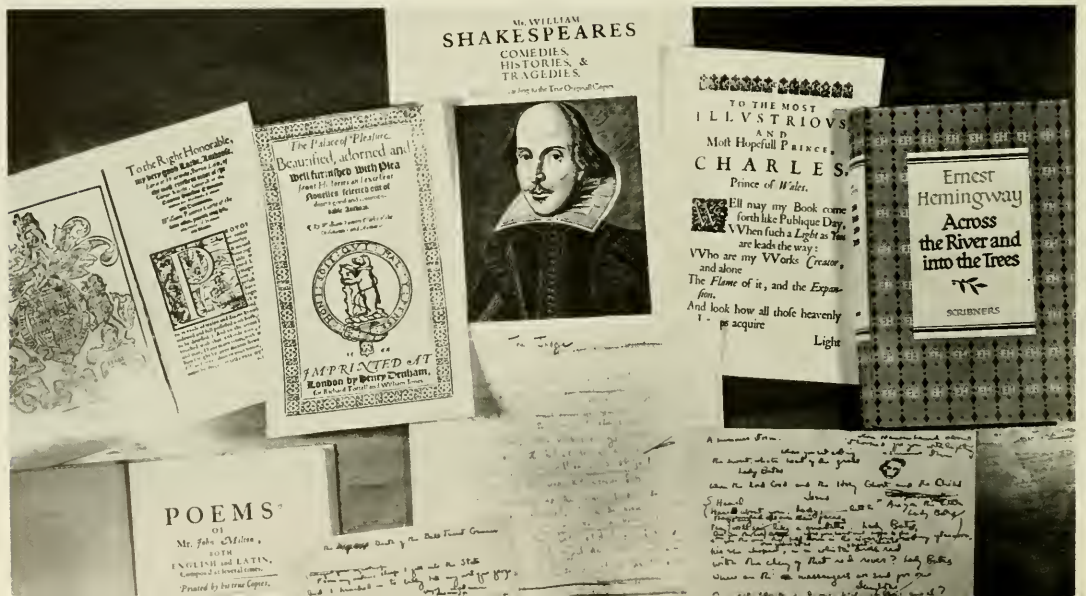

Creative Writing Stressed In Expanding English Department

A strong program in creative writing is one of the assets of the English Department. This program is administered here primarily by Professors Randall Jarrell and Robert Watson, both of whom have had books published within the last year.

The English Department has greatly expanded its offerings this year. Many courses, such as Shakespeare and Victorian Literature, that were previously offered for only one semester are now being offered as full-year courses. New courses have also been added to the curriculum.

THESE BOOKS and manuscripts represent the professional activities, from editorial projects to creative writing, in which the English faculty is engaged.

HISTORY

High Standards Set And Maintained By The Faculty

TWO HISTORY PROFESSORS show another member of the faculty at WC the beauty and the importance of an historic old map.

ECONOMICS

This Department Offers A Strong Major To Students

With the addition of a new faculty member and an International Economics course, this department offers a strong major in the economics field, striving always to create a liberally educated girl who is prepared for a later career. In 1962, Dr. John Kennedy, collaborated with his colleagues to write a textbook and a workbook.

MR. BRASHEAR graphically points out to a class of graduate students specific details of statistics concerning American economy.

The most unique facet of the Department of History is the high caliber of instructors — a very strong faculty which has not only excellent professional training but also an impressive record of creative scholarship. The assets translate themselves into high standards of expectation from students, for which the department is known on campus. The staff includes specialists in various areas of historical study, people who have travelled widely, read extensively, and written for the progression at large with notable success.

The students derive much from this outstanding department. Many majors have gone to graduate school in increasing numbers. They have a long list of scholarships, fellowships and distinguished appointments. This field, and especially the Woman's College Department of History, does much to prepare the student for successful undertakings after graduation.

A DUSTY VOLUME of New York Times, taken from many, provides a history major with information for a research paper.

A FRESHMAN HEALTH STUDENT learns more about herself and her body as she studies a small replica of a human skeleton.

HEALTH

Well Equipped Department Offers Wide Range Of Topics

The Health Department plays an important role in the liberal arts field of education at Woman's College. It is an instruction division which is affiliated with the medical services of the college. The Health Department includes a broad range of associated topics in its curriculum. Although there is no major as yet, this course gives to students practical instructions and information which can be used in college and later life.

There are five qualified, full time members of the instruction division. Well equipped classrooms aid in understanding many aspects of this field. Filmstrips, charts, skeletons are just part of the equipment which is used. The department has access to a laboratory as well as a complete supply of first aid instructional equipment. The prospects for expansion in the Health Department will probably materialize in the next few years.

GEOGRAPHY

Courses Promote Student International Understanding

The Department of Geography emphasizes in its course of studies, appreciation of physical environment and of foreign nations. This promotes within the college student international understanding which is so vital during our time.

A well equipped geography laboratory broadens the range of this department. A full time staff of three help prepare students for vocational opportunities in government services, cartography and social studies education.

A MAJOR FACILITY for foreign language study is the lab, where students receive oral instruction in a chosen language.

COLORFUL TRAVEL POSTERS blaze the glory of romantic lands to foreign language students in the department.

ROMANCE LANGUAGES, GERMAN AND RUSSIAN

Cosmopolitan Staff Is Unique Facet Of Language Departments

One of the language department's major assets is the cosmopolitan quality of the staff. Many teachers are either natives of or have lived in the country whose language they teach. The staff also has a number of people whose work in their field has gained them national reputations. Through the use of our excellent language laboratory, it is possible for all students to receive intensive drill in the language of their choice.

Courses in the Romance Languages prepare a student for teaching and for numerous positions which require language knowledge both in the government and private industry. Contact with the language and literature of other countries greatly contributes to a young woman's cultural background.

The most distinct aspect of the German and Russian Department is the increased emphasis they give to the spoken language. The possibility of spending the junior year at the University of Heidelberg, Germany, is a privilege greatly desired by many earnest language students. Regarding expansion in courses, a course in the Survey of German Literature, placing special emphasis on the period from 800 to 1800, is being offered.

When a young woman graduates with a language major, she is qualified to teach either here or in Germany or Austria. In governmental work, the Foreign Service always provides unlimited opportunities. The United States has a teaching exchange in many of the European countries which sponsor and place teachers in the countries whose language they teach.

WHEN A STUDENT begins studying shorthand, it is like taking a course in a foreign language requiring much practice.

THE FOUR YEAR business majors as well as the one year commercials are acquainted with operation of all types of office machines.

BUSINESS EDUCATION AND COMMERCIAL STUDIES

Business Majors Offered Four Areas Of Concentration

The curriculum of the Department of Business Education integrates a broad general education with special education for students who are planning to enter business or business teaching. Four areas of concentration are provided: a secretarial sequence, a business teacher sequence, a distributive education sequence, and a merchandising sequence. Requirements of the freshman and sophomore years are those of a liberal arts curriculum.

The chief asset of the commercial department is the well-trained, experienced staff that is continuously carrying on individual and class research to meet the demands for well-trained girls in a changing business world. Other assets include adequate equipment and well lighted classrooms.

DAILY PRACTICE and individual desire to learn aid students in mastering a skill necessary for life in the business world.

STUDENT TEACHING means many things — vocational choice, fulfillment, intellectual stimulation, and ever-present tired feet.

EDUCATION

Curry School Is Unique Asset To The School Of Education

Curry, the campus laboratory school, is the focal point of the teacher education program at Woman's College. The college-controlled school, readily accessible to students and staff, is vital to all phases of educational experience.

Outdoor education and school camping are an important part of the curriculum in the School of Education. An educational and recreational school camping program for the sixth grade is conducted during the school year at the college recreation center, Piney Lake.

Future plans for expansion include outdoor education experience on other grade levels.

The School of Education provides its students with many varied aspects of educational training. The Reading Program offers its services to any student who wishes to improve her reading and study skills. Procedure is quite flexible and usually varies with the individual student with different types of training and material available.

IN THE NEW home economics lighting lab, students are shown fundamentals of correct lighting for later use in homes.

FRESHMAN MAJOR, Sally Moffitt, applies the principles of dressmaking that she learned in her Home Economics 101 course.

Useful Residential Lighting Laboratory Is Unprecedented

HOME ECONOMICS MAJORS are not always working in the kitchens. Girls eagerly learn the useful art of upholstering chairs.

The School of Home Economics is nationally and internationally recognized for its staff, the caliber of students who graduate with majors from this school, and its up-to-date facilities. The staff is known not only for its teaching but also for its research and publications. Opportunities for graduate and research study in this school are unlimited, but this does not minimize the existence of a strong and versatile undergraduate program.

Much expansion has taken place in the School of Home Economics during the past academic year. An associate professor has been added to the department in the area of child and family development. The school has seen the completion of a clothing construction-conference laboratory and a housing research center as well as a new residential lighting laboratory. This lighting laboratory is quite unique in that it is the only one of its kind in any of the schools of home economics in the United States. As far as major courses are concerned, a four-year program in interior design was announced in July of 1962 and a new course has been added at the doctorate level in child development.

PSYCHOLOGY

Closed Circuit Television Is Rarity In Departments

In quality, the facilities and equipment of the Psychology Department are unusually adequate. Many new items of laboratory equipment have been added, among them, a closed circuit television system used for demonstration purposes.

The department has tried to foster a close working contact between psychology majors and the psychology faculty. A great deal of emphasis is placed on Honors Work and on other forms of independent research. Students are regularly employed as teaching assistants in the laboratory, in faculty research, and in the College Vocational Counseling Service.

One of the members of the faculty, Dr. Elizabeth Duffy, has recently published a book entitled Activation and Behavior, which deals with practical application in psychology.

ALONG WITH its class instruction, the Psychology Department acquaints students with the operation of the lie detector.

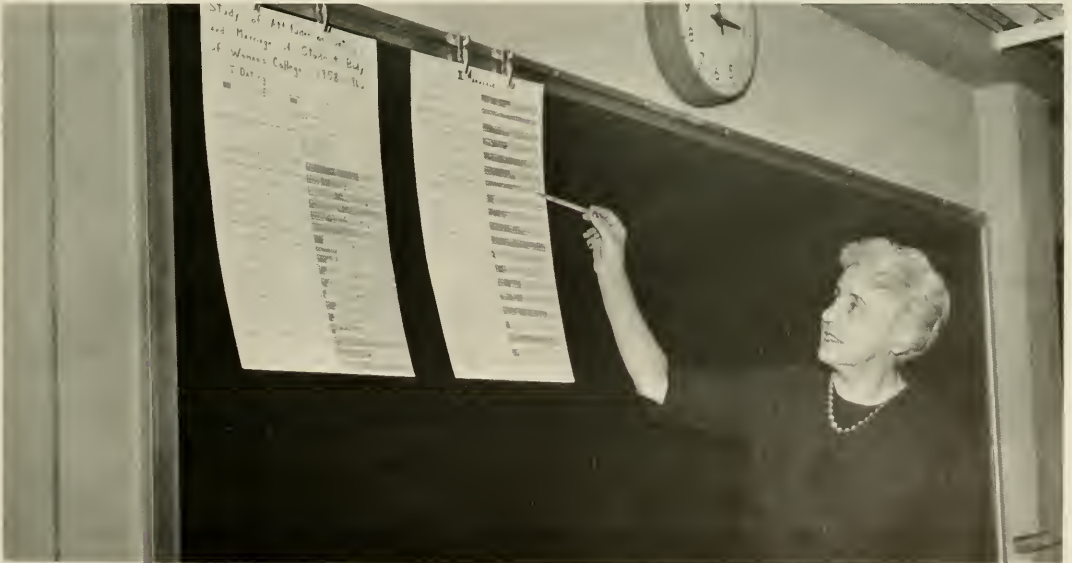

SOCIOLOGY AND ANTHROPOLOGY

Faculty Members Gain Distinction From Many Sources

Faculty members of the Department of Sociology and Anthropology have made themselves well known. Articles have been published by every member of the staff at some time, and in 1962 Elaine Burgess' book, Negro

Leadership in a Southern City, was published. Dr. Richard Lieban, on leave of absence from the department this year, is doing research in the Philippines through a research grant from N. I. H.

NURSING

Hard Work And Long Hours Rewarding For Student Nurses

The only two year program in Nursing Education in North Carolina is offered by the Department of Nursing Education at Woman's College. The average number of girls accepted each year in the past has been twenty-eight, but enrollment may be doubled next fall.

The department requires a rigorous program for would-be nurses. During their first year, the girls are required to spend six hours a week in laboratory practice at Cone Hospital, and the hours are increased to fifteen during the second year. After the first year, students work during the summer at the John Umstead Hospital in Butner and during the following summer as nurse interns at Cone Hospital.

THROUGH ACTUAL HOSPITAL work, student nurses gain the skills and knowledge that accompany them throughout their careers.

ON A SUNNY DAY the greens of the W. C. golf course are covered with students practicing techniques learned in class.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

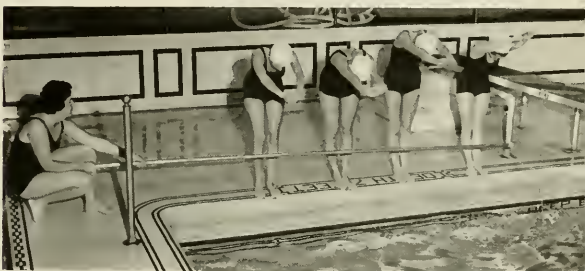

Physical Fitness For All Students Is Department Aim

This department offers many things to many people. Its aim is to give students a general college program in physical education designed to meet needs and interests of college women for fitness, recreation, and leisure. To those who major in physical education, it offers a professional program in physical and health education, dance, and recreation preparing for teaching and leadership, as well as other undergraduate and graduate degrees. These majors also have the use of unusually complete library resources, including the Wellesley College Homan's Collection, unequaled in this field.

The department unquestionably has facilities appropriate for the offering of a comprehensive program for all. There are two gymnasiums, a pool, a nine hole golf course, bowling alley, tennis courts, archery range, playing fields, dance studios, and a corrective laboratory. All of these facilities are open to all students for instruction, practice, and recreation.

Expansion has taken many forms in the Physical Education Department. Future hopes include new tennis courts and an enlargement of the swimming pool, as well as an increased emphasis on advanced degrees preparing for college teaching.

THE TEMPERATURE outside is low, but the pool thermometer registers a warm 85° as these girls get a first diving lesson.

PRACTICE ROOMS are the home away from home for most of the music majors, no matter what their field of concentration.

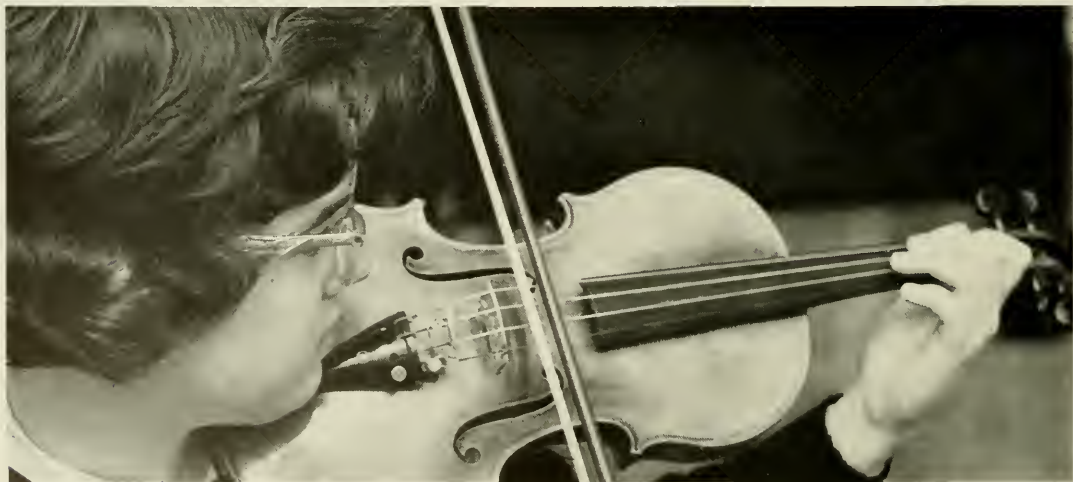

MUSIC

All Members Of Faculty Make Music Themselves

Due to the nature of its curriculum, the School of Music varies greatly from other departments at Woman's College. A Bachelor of Arts and a Masters degree are offered to those students majoring in music. The attainment of these degrees requires many long hours of practice, and these students find it necessary to spend most of their waking hours in the practice rooms of the Music Building. Every member of the faculty is a performing musician, and many have gained national recognition through publications and national conventions. The recent addition of a nine foot Steinway grand piano, has rounded out the facilities of the school.

LONG YEARS OF PREPARATION and hoping reach their climax during a student's first violin lesson in the Music Building of Woman's College.

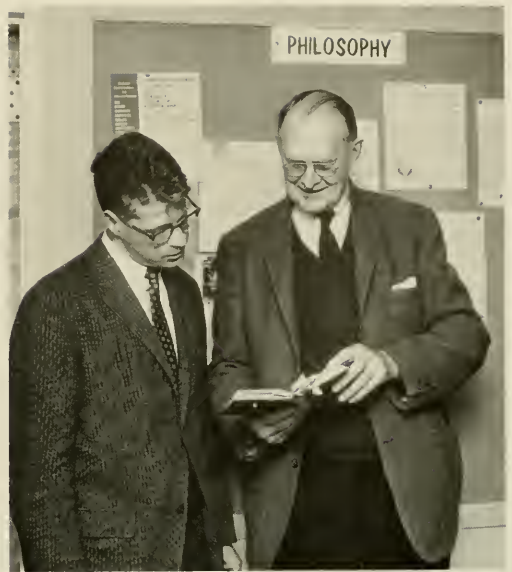

PHILOSOPHY

Visiting Professor At WC Is Eminent Philosopher

A major program in Philosophy has just recently been established at Woman's College and is in part responsible for the growing enrollment of the Philosophy Department. There has been expansion in the curriculum of the department also, by the addition of such courses as Introduction to Logic, Contemporary Philosophy of America, American Philosophy, and a reading course.

An eminent philosopher, Dr. Cornelius Kruse of Wesleyan University, is a visiting professor this year. He is teaching during the absence of Dr. Warren Ashby, who has been granted leave to complete a biography of Dr. Frank Porter Graham. Dr. Kruse also directs the Junior Honors Seminar, a program that is offered at the college for the first time this year.

DR. CORNELIUS KRUSE, Visiting Professor of Philosophy, and Dr. Robert Rosthal discuss the addition of a new course.

CLASSICAL CIVILIZATION

Greek Plays Are Presented By Students And Faculty

In Greek and Latin literature can be found the origin of much present day knowledge such as the philosophy of Aristotle, the basis of history, and many principles of math. The Department of Classical Civilization places most of its emphasis on the teaching of this literature and on the Greek and Latin languages. During past years, there have been eight Greek plays presented by the department and the Classical Club. During the next academic year, a full time member will be added to the staff, along with a course on politics in the time of Julius Caesar.

DR. LAINE, head of the Department of Classical Civilization, writes in Greek, for his class, the opening line of Homer's Iliad.

How strange it will seem to find men as well as women in classes on this campus! Many of the traditions which bind the various classes together — Hats Off Day, Sister Day, Daisy Chain — will undoubtedly fall by the wayside; yet, just as certainly, new events will grow to serve the function of these.

About To Graduate, Seniors Pause, Recall College Days

The second of June represents both an end and a beginning for the members of the Class of '63. Looking back over the four years which are coming to a close, many memories are brought to mind including Rat Day, Jacket Day, Ring Day, and the Junior Show. This year has witnessed many memorable occasions: senior privileges . . . new cars . . . rings and wedding plans . . . student teaching . . . applications for jobs . . . interviews . . . invitations . . . caps and gowns . . . Class Day . . . finally graduation, marking a true commencement for the seniors.

Responsibilities, Major Fields, Rings, Highlight Junior Year

The Junior class experienced many things as a cohesive group this past year. As Big Sisters to the Class of '66 they gained an added responsibility; the anticipation and excitement of Sister Day was one of the highlights of the year.

The academic side of campus life gained new importance as the Juniors began to study in their major fields. Along with increased interest in their work, they discovered a sense of closeness to department heads and professors.

Working together on class projects such as selling Christmas cards and on the Junior show, the Juniors have grown in status as individuals and as a group and have gained a feeling of leadership on campus. Wearing their new class rings with great pride, the Class of '64 looks forward to that most exciting time of all — Senior year.

Blue Jackets Again Appear; Hats Off Day Alters Rat Day

Sophomore Year is an experience like none other in a college career for transition must be made from freshman status to that of upperclassman. From unlimited class cuts, to more social freedom, to having a sink in one's room — all these things are part of being a Sophomore.

Highlights of class activity this year included Parents Weekend, the presentation of "Key to a Memory" in honor of the Seniors, and Jacket Day.

Freshmen Add Enthusiasm, Sparkle To The Campus

The freshman class dance — talent show — freshman-sophomore party — contribution to the scholarship fund — these were the projects which bound the Class of '66 together. Selection of class song, motto, jacket, and banner further strengthened this unity. Complaints of closed study, lights out, permission slip problems, and semester exams . . . all smilingly acknowledged by sympathetic upperclassmen. As sophomore status rapidly approaches, freshmen look back longingly to another Hats Off Day, to another rally in the Quad, in short — to another freshmen year.

BUBBLE GUM seems to be a very popular item with girls in Kirkland Dorm when the studying gets rough before exams.

A TRIM FIGURE is the vogue of today, and these energetic girls have found the answer to the weight and figure problem.

Forney Habitants Aim For Efficiency

To become chic, intelligent, informed women of the modern business world is the goal of the commercial class of '63. Programs presenting clothing tips, job opportunities, advice from previous graduates and from employers constitute a major part of the class activities. Nursing Organizes For Its Future

The Woman's College Student Nurses' Organization is a voluntary association open to all nursing students at the college, and its officers are class officers. The organization coordinates the efforts of the first and second year nursing students in academic and social activities on campus. With an awareness of each student's role in the future of nursing it promotes the professional goals for nursing. It is a local affiliate of the National Student Nurses' Association and provides opportunity for member participation in projects at the district, state, and national level.

MAKING USE of library medical references is a very frequent necessity for Carolyn Souther and Virginia Lowe.

CARING FOR her patient is the endeavor of Sue Nichols as she transfers knowledge of principles into nursing practice.

College centered study is combined with patient centered care at Moses H. Cone Memorial Hospital. Students transfer learning to the development of nursing skills beneficial to their patients. After two years of study and application of knowledge, six weeks orientation in psychiatric nursing at John Umstead Hospital, Butner, North Carolina, and a four month internship at Cone Memorial Hospital, the student is ready for licensing by the State Board of Nurse Registration. One Sunday in Autumn she graduates . . . the reward is hers . . . an Associate Degree in Nursing . . . symbol of so much, passport to so much more. "Putting learned principles into practice" is indeed a phrase symbolic to each student of nursing at the Woman's College.

STUDENT LIFE

Campus Life	132
Special Events	150
Beauties	162

"... Oh, I want to be in that number, when W.C. becomes co-ed!" Now that the facetious wish of generations of Woman's College students is about to be granted, one wonders what changes in student life will take place. Although some of the aspects pictured here will remain essentially the same, many will be altered.

Confusion, Excitement, And Anticipation Confront Freshmen

BOXES, BAGS, CLOTHES, and more clothes fill the girls' arms who are moving into the dorm the first day of orientation.

CARS, CARS, EVERYWHERE, and not one to drive! Anxious Freshmen and parents crowd the quad as moving day begins.

September 13, 1962 — freshmen arrival at W.C. turned the campus into utter chaos with parents, girls, cars, and clothes, not to mention books, lamps, chairs, and pictures. The first look at roommates after weeks of anticipation, the friendliness of JHP's and assistants all eased the uncertain feelings about starting a new life.

One thousand three hundred and fifty new members of the campus plunged straight into a week of orientation designed to familiarize them with the campus. The major side effect was breaking in new loafers. Discovering the Yum Yum, library, dining hall, soda shop, bookstore, the corner, house counselors, JHP's, house meetings, lines, and girls — this was Orientation.

HOUSE PRESIDENT Beverly Bass and Assistant House President Sylvia Williams greet six new Gray girls in the quad.

TIRED FRESHMEN rest on steps of McIver while their Junior Advisor relates detailed instructions concerning orientation.

MASS CONFUSION reigns on the first day of registration as Freshmen have their first taste of that W.C. pastime, waiting in line.

ALUMNAE ASSOCIATION provides refreshing lemonade to quench students' thirst during the hot, fall registration hours.

PERPLEXED FRESHMAN wonders during the first trying registration period why she is the only one confused by the barrage of signs, sections, and cards. She decides a long wait in the regular English line is decidedly preferable to immediate registration in English Honors. Having carefully checked her IBM card to be sure it has not been folded, spindled, clipped, or stapled and assured she still has a lunch period, in spite of them all, she sits down in a most welcome seat to begin bravely the interminable copying.

Students Welcome New Soda Shop Addition To Campus

GOOD FOOD and good service tempt patrons of the new Woman's College Restaurant to return again to enjoy a pleasing atmosphere.

The new Soda Shop and restaurant located in Elliott Hall present one more reason for this building's popularity among the student body. The Soda Shop serves as a constant spot of communication since the company is great; the music, new; and the food — best threat yet to the dining hall.

For those infrequent moments of wealth among students and often for faculty and guests, the Woman's College Restaurant provides excellent service and food in a wonderfully relaxing atmosphere. Appreciation runs high for this new addition.

COKES, HOT DOGS, lots of snacks! Not only is the Soda Shop a grand place for study breaks, but great for dates, too.

MODERN FIXTURES in new Soda Shop permit students quick, courteous service between classes and for study breaks.

Julia Barbee, W.C. Freshman, Chosen C.U. Queen

Fifteen Trailway buses conveyed W.C. students to the State-Carolina game at Chapel Hill on September 22, 1962, for Consolidated University day. Julia Barbee, a freshman in Hinshaw, was crowned C.U. queen during half-time ceremonies amid a capacity crowd of enthusiastic fans.

The weather, for a change, cooperated nicely and the day's proceedings were conducted under a warm September sun. The Carolina campus offered a wide variety of entertainment after the game with open houses, an outdoor combo, and of course, the "Rat." Ten-thirty p.m. saw the conclusion of a well-filled day. Girls found themselves homeward bound with hands full of souvenirs and a stock of memories for the 1962 C.U. day.

AT 6:30 A.M. Hats Off Day Chairmen Rae Dearing and Kay Smathers instruct the sleepy Freshmen in the crowded quad.

Freshmen And Sophomores Find New Hats Off Day Fun

Six-thirty a.m., Wednesday, October 10, dawned noisily for freshmen and sophomores as Hats Off Day made its official appearance on campus. Under the supervision of members of the Class of '65, freshmen dressed in black skirts, white blouses, bobby sox, tennis shoes, and handmade top hats and bow ties. A big assembly was held in the quad with Rae Dearing and Kay Smathers in charge. Instructions were given for the day and assignments were made to each dorm. The crowd had breakfast en masse complete with the freshman serenade to their superiors.

Highlighting the day's events was the sophomore show held in Elliott Hall during the afternoon. Joan Donohue's original work of songs and a skit made the program a memorable one for both classes. Finally, in a session with the Supreme Court, the proceedings came to an end but with a new sense of friendship between the Classes of '65 and '66.

FRESHMEN DON their new hats, receive their orders and march off to breakfast in the dining hall and a fully-planned day.

AHA! THE CHANCE to really let the "profs" know how we honestly feel about them presents itself at the annual Purse Drive Carnival.

Purse Drive Carnival Held In Elliott Hall Big Success

The Service League each year sponsors a drive similar to the United Fund. The 1962 Carnival was a success due to the widespread participation of the student body. This year the features were a talent show, a professors' dog show, a cake walk, a favorite professor poll, a cookie booth, a slave auction, a caricature booth, a limbo contest, a miscellaneous auction, and the campus-wide penny race. The Carnival provided campus participation in community service — available to all through Service League.

WHAT A FOAMY MESS! A careless slip of a razor on the balloon and shaving cream coats the unsuccessful contestant.

Fall, Christmas, Valentine's Bring Elliott Hall Dances

A main feature of Elliott Hall's contribution to the campus is the formal and casual dances it sponsors during the year. The Elliott Hall ball, the only formal affair for the whole campus, was held during November with the theme "Autumn Nocturne." The Christmas dance in December was semiformal in tune with the yuletide festivities. In February, a sweetheart dinner and dance was held and climaxed the more formal events. Still offering record or combo dances on Saturday nights, Elliott Hall succeeds in serving the campus with recreational and social affairs.

GAILY DRESSED GIRLS with handsome dates take a breather in the crowded Soda Shop during the annual Christmas Dance.

FLOWING GOWNS, dreamy music, and the lovely decorations create an appealing atmosphere for the Elliott Hall Ball.

THOSE JUNIORS sure know how to treat their sister class! There are parties, food, fun, and even real live angels.

THE TWIST has gotten to just about everyone! Even Santa, his W.C. ring, and his scarab bracelet have gotten into the act.

THE SPIRIT OF CHRISTMAS echoes across campus as Freshmen and Juniors unite to cheer the heart with a song.

SEE THE PRETTY GIRLS? They are W.C. students who sang Christmas carols on TV to the listeners. Color them celebrities.

Christmas Spirit Spread By Sister Class Caroling Party

One of the special ways of celebrating Christmas on the Woman's College campus is the sister class party. The 1962 Yuletide festivities were marked by a Sophomore-Senior and by a Freshman-Junior party.

The special feeling of unity that normally exists between these class groups was climaxed by these celebrations. Quizzes, papers, and problems were temporarily forgotten as the holiday spirit pervaded the gatherings. The informal gatherings culminated in caroling and singing at the TV station. The girls bundled themselves into heavy coats and scarfs to protect them from the crisp cold and set forth to bring the Christmas spirit to others in the traditional old carols.

AT THE FROSH-JUNIOR PARTY Santa Claus (and his Woman's College ring) asks a Freshman if she's been a good girl.

NO ONE can deny that the Senior-Sophomore Christmas Party was a great success; of course they served refreshments!

GATHER ROUND, little girls, and I will tell you a story. "'Twas the night before Christmas, and all through the house . . ."

On Campus

THE FACULTY'S young children are hard at play during a Christmas party given for them. Special treat is Santa's visit.

IF THESE happy expressions mean anything, the weekly teas in Elliott Hall are a big success and anxiously awaited by starving girls.

HOPE THIS isn't permanent!
Maybe they were rushed.

A DORM PARLOR isn't the best place for an argument.

THE P.E. DEPARTMENT offers many opportunities to students. Included on its curriculum is a course in "Pin Setting."

"COME WITH ME to the Casbah," beckons the model of this bewitching after-five dress, but members of the audience seem a bit reluctant.

NOT ONLY are there lines to get the food, but lines to get rid of the dirty dishes! "So this is where our $50 went," wail impatient girls.

W.C. GIRLS stroll through the lovely, white, but barely recognizable campus during a beautiful snow fall.

THE AUDIENCE of W.C. students feels that this is not quite the picture of their ideal wedding gown.

On Campus

THERE ALWAYS SEEMS to be some long line to wait in somewhere on this big campus even at the Soda Shop in Elliott Hall.

"JUST TESTING to see if it is sharp enough," remarks a prop girl who works backstage in Aycock on "The Suspect."

THIS GET-TOGETHER after the Hats Off musical provides jolly Sophomores with more good music.

ABSORBING KNOWLEDGE at the proper angle is important. The hard, straight-backed chairs and the tables upstairs just do not meet this requirement.

NEITHER RAIN nor blocked sidewalks keeps W.C. students from taking a break in the Soda Shop.

DATES really brighten W.C. The Soda Shop takes on a different atmosphere, studying is suddenly more interesting, and there is something about a man's pipe . . .

THE SPANISH CLUB, like other organizations on campus, feeds its members well. But the unusual feature is that they import boys!

JUST THINK of all those long, hard hours in the art lab. And what have you to show? Just an old piece of wood.

Special Events

Eleni Tsaouli's Panhellenion brings together the many strands of Hellenic dance and music into a colorful salute to all of Greece and its peoples. Adding to the color and shifting moods of the Greek Folk Festival are the amazing instrumentalists, including the clarinet and the Santouri as well as the violins and the lute-like Bouzouki.

Former Secretary of State, Christian Herter appeared at the Woman's College in the 1962 Harriet Elliott Social Science Forum. Mr. Herter is now head of the United States Citizens Commission on NATO and the Atlantic Council of the United States, Inc. Choosing "The Atlantic Community" as his topic, he presented lectures on "Developments Since World War II," "The Present Situation" and "The Outlook for the Future." Mr. Herter is pictured here with Gayle Hicks, Student Chairman of the Forum.

In October the Lecture-Entertainment Series in conjunction with the Inter-Faith Council sponsored the production of Ortin Corey's The Book of Job. To quote from the New York Times, it "is an awesome and most majestic rendition to be remembered both for the adaptor's concept as well as for the costumes and make up of the participants."

John Browning, a renowned young piano virtuoso, appeared at Woman's College in October. After making his musical debut at 10, Browning has gone on to become an international star, who has appeared throughout Europe, the Middle East, and America. His success is astounding, his repertory is limitless, and his performances are superior.

Randall Jarrell, poet, critic, novelist and Woman's College teacher of writing, was this year invited to speak at the National Poetry Festival at the Library of Congress in Washington. His lecture, "Fifty Years of American Poetry," which he also presented on campus, was a wide-ranging account of all the fascinating practitioners of poetry in the modern period.

The Woman's College was honored to have Mrs. Charles W. Tillett as the McIver Lecturer at the Founder's Day ceremony on October 5. Mrs. Tillett began her political career as the Woman's College's first S.G.A. President and continued to move through the political vein of our country by becoming an ardent worker in the Democratic Party. She is currently the U. S. Representative on the U. N. Committee on the Status of Women. Pictured here with her are Miss Barbara Parrish, Chancellor Singletary, and Carol Furey.

The Weavers, a popular folk-singing group, presented a program entitled "Folk Songs Around the World" October 6, 1962. The quartet sang work songs, blues, ballads and spirituals from countries including the United States, Israel, Spain, Chile and South Africa. The group, which is composed of three men and a woman, presented a somewhat different performance for Woman's College students; the leader of the Weavers had lost his list of stories and so regaled the audience with ad-libs.

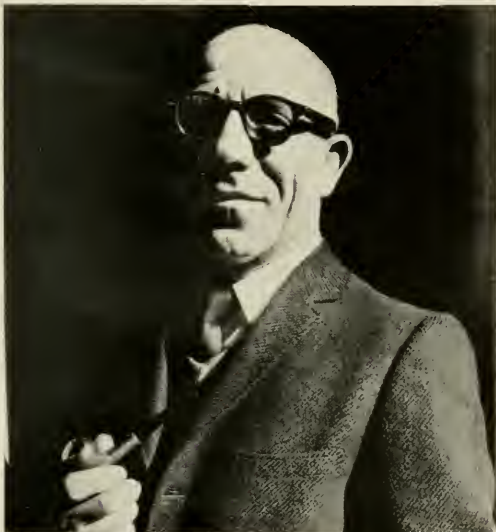

Cesare Valletti appeared in Aycock Auditorium on March 26, 1963 in a concert sponsored by the Greensboro Civic Music Association. An outstanding tenor, Cesare Valletti thrilled his large audience of music lovers with his varied and quite excellent repertoire.

One of the highlights of the Lecture Entertainment Series this year was the Phakavali, the famous dance-music and drama company of Thailand. The Phakavali, on its first coast-to-coast tour of the United States, included in its program not only the classical Epic dance-dramas of Thailand but also several of the colorful folk dances which so beautifully typify the spirit of the Thai people.

On January 15, 1963, The Greensboro Civic Music Association sponsored a subscription concert in Aycock Auditorium which featured Ruggiero Ricci. This extremely talented violinist presented an excellent and versatile program which was well attended and enthusiastically received.

The Woman's College was fortunate in having Boris Margo, a very talented artist, participate in the annual Arts Festival this year.

Under the sponsorship of the Greensboro Civic Music Association, The Goldowsky Grand Opera Theater presented Giuseppe Verdi's La Traviata in December. Written originally in Italian, an English translation was rendered here.

Pajama Game Tours Northern Countries Through A. E. T. O.

On October 28, 1962, the Theatre of the Woman's College Touring Company of Pajama Game left Greensboro for a six-weeks tour of American Military Installations in Newfoundland, Labrador, Greenland, and Iceland. The W.C. group was selected to make the tour by the American Educational Theater Association; sponsorship and arrangements were provided by the United Services Organizations. The company covered approximately 10,000 miles and ended their tour at Reykjavic, Iceland.

The Theatre Of Woman's College Presents Drama, Comedy

"LIZZIE BORDEN took an ax . . ." provides the basis for W.C. production, The Suspect.

THE CLIMAX of the play shows Lizzie frantically chopping with her ax.

This year the Theatre of Woman's College celebrated its 40th Anniversary. Their productions for the year in Aycock Auditorium included Suspect, an English mystery thriller based on the legend of Lizzie Borden; The Royal Gambit, a modern morality play which stems from the story of King Henry VIII; The Turn of the Screw, Henry James' famous ghost story; and The Red Shoes. The scope and range of these presentations proved once again the versatility to be found in our theatre.

STAR BARBARA MENDELSON is in the early stages of applying character make-up for her fascinating role as Mrs. Smith in The Suspect.

BACKSTAGE WORK in Aycock is as essential to a successful production as is the more glamorous work before the audience.

Junior Class Celebrates Class Rings With Candlelit Ceremony

The arrival of class rings is always an exciting event in the life of a Woman's College student. The traditional onyx and black ring is symbolic of many things — it is tangible evidence of successful completion of the first half of a college career, rapid passage of time, increased awareness of upperclassman status and nearness to a degree.

The Class of '64, no less than those before it, realized the awesome importance of their class rings; they celebrated the occasion with a traditional ring ceremony which took place in the Freshman Quad and was attended by Dean Taylor and Dean Mossman. The Juniors began their candlelit procession between Shaw and Gray, and led by the class officers moved to the center of the Quad. There they walked through a large, spotlighted replica of a ring while their Sister Class, the Freshmen, looked on. The Junior Class cheerleader led the group in the singing of the ring song to the melody of "Moon River," the new class song, and the Sister Song.

THE ANNUAL RING CEREMONY includes a beautiful medley of familiar songs, including, of course, the Junior Class song and the College song.

"Our Hearts Were Young And Gay" Is Smashing Success

THE NICE PROTECTED GIRLS of N.C.C.W., clad in middy blouses, giggle at an idea proposed by their daring leader Phoebe.

After weeks of planning, rewriting, and rehearsing, the much awaited opening night finally came. Only those who have been a part of Junior Show production could know the excitement and thrill gained from such an experience. Our Hearts Were Young and Gay was an authentic and amusing farce of college life in the 1920's.

DURING HER "EXILE" to U.N.C., Phoebe meets a fraternity man. Purpose of her trip is to expose her to the cruel world.

THE JUNIOR SHOW tries to explain why a sheltered life at N.C.C.W. is better — but fraternity parties are great fun!

THE OTHER SIDE of the situation is seen during a meeting of the shocked faculty members called by Dean Goodharte.

THE SOPHOMORES, too, have a share in Class Day as they provide a daisy-chained pathway for their graduating sister class.

Daisy Chain Climaxes Class Day Exercises For Seniors

The Sophomores' last tribute to their Sister Class of '62 was the traditional daisy chain. At 5:00 A.M., June 1, fifteen sleepy-eyed sophomores climbed aboard a truck and made their way to the field of daisies. Having picked twenty laundry baskets of daisies, the girls set to work making the chain. Several hours later, the finished product was transported to the freezer to await its debut at Class Day exercises. The following day twenty sophomores dressed in white formed an isle of daisies for the graduating seniors. A highlight of the day was the announcement of outstanding seniors.

ANOTHER VIEW of the Daisy Chain shows Seniors leaving Class Day exercises as parents and friends watch.

Seniors Receive Degrees During '62 Graduation Exercises

June 3, 1962 was Graduation Day for the Class of 1962. Although it was hot and rainy, the girls could not have cared less. This day was all too important for them to be spoiled by a few showers. Once inside the comfortable air-conditioned Greensboro Coliseum, parents, families and friends sat, many with tear-filled eyes, as they thought proudly of their own special graduate. Governor Sanford was the main speaker; Chancellor Singletary and other members of the college faculty also took part in the graduation exercises.

DURING COMMENCEMENT exercises Seniors anxiously await the long walk to the platform to receive their diplomas.

Marshals

Every spring in the second S.G.A. election twelve marshals are elected from the rising junior class and eight from the rising senior class. The chief marshal is chosen by the student body from the rising marshals of the senior class. These girls marshal at plays and concerts in Aycock Auditorium and Elliott Hall as well as Commencement and Class Day activities. With their beauty, charm, and poise, they represent our school with honor and dignity.

As the campus enlarges and encompasses an ever greater number of individuals, the organizations found here will also expand to provide outlets for the varied talents of the student body. The present organizations will be faced with the challenge of revising their operations in order to maintain their excellent record of service to the college community.

S.G.A. Offers Workshops, Mock Trial To Inform Girls

Student Government Association began its extensive activities with a two-day pre-school conference in September which featured a panel discussion on the role of student government on this campus. Workshops were held at Piney Lake to discuss the various programs for the coming year.

In October S.G.A. attempted to bridge the gap between the students and student government by holding workshops and a mock trial. The trial consisted of a double case utilizing both courts in order to acquaint the students with court procedure. Following the trial, four thirty-minute discussion sessions were held by the different branches of S.G.A. including the Judicial System, National Student Association, Legislature, and the Inter-Faith Council. These groups gave students an opportunity to ask questions concerning that particular phase of student government, as well as to voice opinions and offer constructive criticisms.

Although the three branches of S.G.A. are separate bodies, they have co-operated this year in an effort to improve conditions on campus.

As the enrollment of Woman's College grows larger, the tasks of the Student Government Association become more complex. It is increasingly difficult to reach the individual student and make her realize her part in S.G.A. The Executive Cabinet, composed of various student leaders, will be called upon for even more assistance to co-ordinate the respective groups with which they are most closely associated.

JANICE THOMAS, College Cheerleader, is found on stage in Aycock, where she leads the college song during mass meetings.

SGA TREASURER Carol Knotts finds that balancing the books can be perplexing but knows it is a duty required of her office.

Judicial System Attempts To Introduce A Court Of Appeals

CHAIRMAN of the Judicial System, Dot Davis is interrupted by the telephone while reviewing a case for Honor Court.

The Judicial System on campus is composed of two branches: the Honor Court and the Court of Social Regulations. The main function of the Honor Court is to make the campus aware of the Honor Policy and what it means, for this court deals with all honor violations. The Court of Social Regulations deals with all major social offenses. Both courts must be firm yet flexible, understanding, yet rational. They must meet each individual case with open-mindedness. The courts do not always punish. Depending upon the offense, sometimes only a reprimand is given.

Hall Board is the sub-division of the court system, existing in each dorm. One member of the Court of Social Regulations must be on each Hall Board. Hall Board deals with minor social offenses.

During the first semester the two major courts handled a total of 221 cases. Of these, 19 cases were handled by the Honor Court; 189, by the Court of Social Regulations. There were 13 double cases involving both courts.

An important effort of the Judicial System this year was the attempt to establish a Court of Appeals.

PRIOR TO court, Beth Clinkscales, Executive Secretary of the Court of Social Regulations, talks with individual students.

LYNN GANIM, Executive Secretary of Honor Court, is concerned with honor violations. Here she is checking the files.

Legislature Active, Passes Districting, Drinking Bills

Legislature is the medium through which the students assume the responsibility of self-government. Elected representatives from each residence hall meet every two weeks to voice student opinion and to make decisions according to the wishes of the majority. This body suggests, discusses, and enacts the important business that eventually affects all students.

Almost every rule which pertains to W.C. life is passed through the Legislature; this important group is composed of one representative for each fifty students. Through the work of its committees, the Legislature has attempted to keep itself informed and make improvements on the campus. Among the most important legislation passed this year were the Districting Bill, the Drinking Bill, and the bill to oust N.S.A. from the S.G.A. which was passed by Legislature but defeated by the student body. Many proposals swelled the agenda and received due consideration by the delegates. Action has been the by-word of the Legislature for the 1962-1963 session; the leaders have worked long and hard hours, in and out of official session.

The members of Legislature sometimes seem to have a thankless task, but they are vital to the campus life of Woman's College. This branch of Student Government is a growing concern, always striving for the progressive change.

DURING A LENGTHY legislature meeting, Louise Habicht reads the list of new legislative districts for every dorm on campus.

BI-MONTHLY on Wednesday nights during the year, legislature, conducted by Sue Rice, meets in the Alexander room of Elliott Hall.

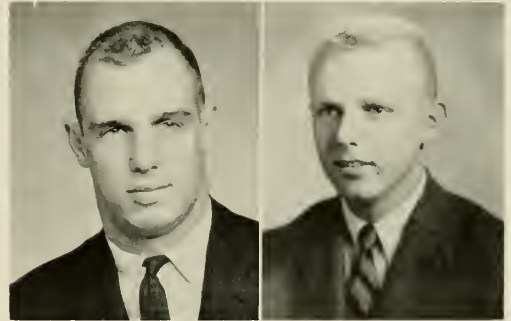

C.U. Council Sponsors Functions Among University Branches

ANN EVERETT, chairman of the W.C. delegation of the Consolidated University Council, co-ordinates C.U. activities for us.

The Consolidated University Council acts as a liaison between the students of State, Carolina, and Woman's College. It co-ordinates and initiates activities to promote harmonious relations between the three groups which make up the greater university.

Consolidated University days are arranged by the council to promote a feeling of unity among the students. Carolina was host for the first C.U. Day last fall. Crowded buses, packed to the brim with singing, high-spirited girls, traveled to Chapel Hill for the State-Carolina game and were welcomed by smiling, eager male faces. The carnival at State and the dance here at W.C. were also successful functions of the council.

Upperclassmen On Campus Find More Dormitory Freedom

Much of the intra-campus communications system is centered around ten seniors and their respective house counselors. Working in cooperation with the president of S.G.A., they bring important matters, announcements, and issues to the residents of their dorms and present them in an informal atmosphere conducive to discussion and suggestions. These girls work together in seeking solutions to common problems and in discussing campus issues. The S.H.P. is not only the main administrator of the dorm who locks up, files permission slips, and presides at house meetings, she is also the co-ordinator of all dorm functions and committees. Communicator, administrator, co-ordinator — she is also a friend.

Junior House Presidents Lead Active, Exciting Year

After frantically writing welcome letters to the incoming freshmen in her dorm, the J.H.P. eagerly awaits that first house meeting with high hopes and shaky knees. She begins to realize the full weight of responsibility she has taken upon herself. A never-ending job, full of meetings, organizational problems, explaining permission slips, locking up, hostessing, presiding, legislating, advising, answering thousands of questions and just plain listening, is in store for her and her combination roommate-assistant. However, there are rewards — the dorm parties, the sister parties, "their" first class meeting, the perennial short-sheeting, the feeling of pride in each of her girl's accomplishments.

Working in close co-operation with her house counselor, the J.H.P. occupies herself with the administrative duties in the freshman hall, organizing committees, putting up bulletin boards, making announcements, and getting to know the girls by name — all one hundred and fifty of them!

Elliott Hall Program Varied

Four Lads, Dances, Teas

One of the most important activities sponsored by Elliott Hall this year was the first big dance weekend held on the Woman's College campus. The weekend included a concert by the Four Lads, a box supper and a dance with a popular combo. Although this function was special, it is representative of the many recreational services Elliott Hall provides for the students.

The elegant modern building which is known as Elliott Hall houses an extremely efficient group of people. Headed by Miss Prondecki and the Council, these people make possible the ever-popular coffee breaks, informal dances, dinners and the Elliott Hall Ball. This building is also the site of the fashion shows, Sunday night movies, lectures and teas. A special feature of Elliott Hall is the art exhibit; this exhibit is changed often and ranges from high school award winners to campus and local artists. In all these activities, Elliott Hall reflects a desire to enrich the social and cultural life of the campus.

ELLIOTT HALL'S Director, Miss Elvira Prondecki and Jean Broadwell, President, plan activities for our student center.

The Service League strives to aid those who are less fortunate in this country and abroad. The Purse Drive, the League's main project, is conducted each fall with the money collected being apportioned by the group to deserving causes and organizations. The Drive is climaxed by the carnival, featuring the traditional penny race between the classes and the Faculty Dog Show.

The Service League's Christmas project was "Christmas for a needy family." Each dorm collects food, clothing and toys for a family. The Red Cross blood-mobile was also sponsored by the Service League.

JO ANN PAYNE, Chairman of Service League, and Mrs. Ruth Johnson, Advisor, discuss projects of the group for the year.

BECKY CASH and Jo Ann Payne are busy printing posters to announce one of Service League's projects, the Bloodmobile.

NSA Attempts To Rejuvenate Its Programs And Policies

The National Student's Association, which strives to inform students of the national and world affairs that vitally concern them as citizens, has been the center of much controversy this year. Criticized for failing to serve a useful function, N.S.A. has survived an attempt to remove it from the Woman's College campus. The organization is now involved in modifying its program so that it can reach more students.

Christian Herter Appears In 1962 Social Science Forum

Each year the Harriet Elliott Social Science Forum brings to the Woman's College campus a program aimed at contemporary problems. The 1962 Forum featured former Secretary of State Christian Herter who analyzed "The Atlantic Community." Mr. Herter was warmly and enthusiastically received; lectures, informal discussion and teas attracted large numbers of students, faculty members, and Greensboro citizens anxious to learn more about this important aspect of world affairs.

OUTSTANDING SENIORS

This year the Pine Needles is including a group of girls who were voted by their class as outstanding seniors. Not only have they been outstanding during their senior year but they have also led their class all four years while at Woman's College. College has meant much to them; in return they have given much of their time, talent and effort in contributing to the different organizations on campus.

It is true that college is what we make it. It can be a very rich and rewarding experience for those who wish to make it so. One does not have to be a leader on campus for this to be true, but without someone to take the initiative in campus activities as these girls have done, we would be lacking a very vital part of college life. Therefore, we wish to recognize them for their excellent leadership while students at the Woman's College.

CAROLINIAN Staff Works To Keep Student Body Informed

AS CAROLYN SCOTT SUDDENLY raised her hand to be excused, someone asked who wanted to be editor, and then . . . !

The hectic world of Carolyn Scott, newspaper editor, and her staff members was one huge rush from September until May. An average week consisted of separating mail from Raleigh's accident statistics, sorting stories two hours late, eating suppers at the Soda Shop, consuming vast quantities of cherry lemonades, squeezing or padding articles, redoing everything as a late picture appeared, and turning gray as the finished product returned from the printer with fifty mistakes. Only after the papers were distributed Friday p.m. could staff members relax and rest until Monday.

Several typographical improvements were found in the Carolinian this year. The use of additional type faces for heads added variety to the paper. The staff also made use of more subheads and boldface type to break up long articles. These changes made a more readable paper.

Having a staff photographer permitted the Carolinian to include more pictures this year. During the year the staff put out 27 papers, five of which were expanded to six pages and one to eight pages.

ORDERED CONFUSION reigns in the Cary office on Monday nights as the staff works late into the night to meet its deadline.

TONS OF MAIL plague the Cary office daily, as Business Manager Carolyn Mundy well knows.

WORKING ON LAYOUT are Feature Editor Diane Oliver, Associate News Editor Melissa Durvin, Photographer Cary Clarke, and Columnist Barbara Wilkinson.

PRIOR TO PUBLICATION of the Carolinnian, numerous news flashes clutter the desk of News Editor Judy Winston, who is reaching for a particular article.

STAFF MEMBERS Jeanne Tannenbaum, Advertising; Karen Patton, Circulation; Mary Hunter and Joan Donohue, Cartoons, admire a latest Cary edition.

MANAGING EDITOR Jerry Beck keeps busy editing late articles as deadline nears.

Outstanding Writers Attend The Coraddi Arts Festival

The only student fine arts magazine on campus, the Coraddi, is published four times during the year under the co-editorship of Jessie Rosenberg and Anne Daughtridge. Applications are reviewed as anonymous articles by the staff members in the fields of music, art, drama, and fiction. Strangely enough with W.C.'s well-known departments of art, music, and English, the Coraddi suffers from lack of student participation.

The Arts Festival is held yearly in cooperation with the magazine, and this year boasted of an excellent panel composed of Randell Jarrell, X. J. Kennedy, Robert Watson, Peter Taylor, and Adrienne Rich. With the support of the student body and an increase in participation, the Coraddi will be able to continue its service to the literary, dramatic, and musical aspects of W.C.

WITH THE APPROACHING deadline for entries co-editors Anne Eddy Daughtridge and Jessie Rosenberg edit submissions.

A CORADDI ATTEMPT at originality? Ridley Tyler Smith, Managing Editor, glances up from her work in a confused state.

JUST ANOTHER DUTY of dedicated Leland Nunn, Business Manager, is filing all the advertising correspondence.

THE LITERARY STAFF CRITICIZES Ridley Smith's suggestion for a different approach in a poetry layout.

SELECTION AND CREATION of cover designs for Coraddi capture Art Editor Kathy McEwen's undivided imagination.

THE ART STAFF discovers that the comfortable informality of a floor lends itself to the evaluation of submitted art works.

1963 Pine Needles Expands

An editor's workshop at the University of Minnesota last summer provided new ideas, and plans for the '63 Pine Needles began to materialize. Numerous changes were evident, as the book progressed from a rough miniature to the finished product.

The frequent trips of Mr. Coursey and Mr. Fleming, hours on end in the office planning layouts, cropping pictures, Mr. Martin, Mr. Miller, a camera, weeks in Elliott Hall with the class photographer Scotty, late hours in Strong writing copy, captions, and identifying pictures — all this and much more went into the year's work.

Efficient Ellen kept the books well in hand. More and more clubs sprang forth to haunt Minta. For Janet, the photographer just couldn't stay long enough. Jo covered this and that event with relentless energy. Ida really worked at getting one of her senior house president's pictures. The dummy was in shreds by March. Everyone worked hard to make this edition of Pine Needles one the student body will enjoy.

MANAGING EDITOR Mary Ann Crocker and Associate Editor Brenda Potter talk about pictures for the opening section.

Recreation Association Provides Variety Of Sports Activity

Promoting interest in recreation and providing opportunities and leadership in recreational activities for all students is the aim of the Recreation Association.

The Executive Council, which is an administrative council, works as an advisory body to the officers and the Cabinet. However, the governing body of the Recreation Association is the Cabinet which is composed of the elected officers, all Committee chairmen, club presidents, heads of sports, residence hall representatives and the faculty advisers. The Cabinet establishes the policy and initiates the planning for the Recreation Association's programs.

Facilities available to the Recreation Association are very adequate. They include a swimming pool, two gymnasiums, a nine-hole golf course, dance studios, sports fields, a bowling alley, a skating rink, tennis courts, and the Piney Lake area.

Students Active In Sports, Participants Vie For Plaque

Pictured on this page are only a few of the highlights of this year's Recreation Association activities. In addition, Saturday afternoon recreation included bowling, table tennis, and billiards. The pool was open frequently for R.A. swimming and life saving. The Co-Off Club sponsored the officials for the intramural games. Faculty-Student softball games and golf tournaments added to the successful R.A. season.

Participants in each sports activity are given points toward winning the Recreation Association's Participation Plaque. At the end of each year the plaque is given to the dorm whose girls have accumulated the highest number of points.

ACTION AND FUN were for all in the fall as interested students met twice each week to play the fast sport of hockey.

Modern Dance, Dolphin-Seal Clubs Lead Active Seasons

During first semester members of Dolphin-Seal, the synchronized swimming club, worked to perfect old stunts and learn new ones. All emphasis turned toward the pageant second semester, and rehearsals lasted many long hours during the final weeks. Costumes, lighting, choreography, and the culmination of everyone's talent and effort made the pageant one of the best ever. Presented March 28, 29, 30, the theme of the pageant was "Shoes."

The Modern Dance Club worked throughout the year creating and practicing dances for their annual spring concert given February 22. In addition to the concert for the Woman's College students, the club traveled to Raleigh to perform for the State College students and faculty. The season was climaxed when the members participated in the thesis dances written by graduate students who received their Master's Degree in Fine Arts.

Dorm Intramurals In Volleyball, Basketball Get Wide Support

A popular phase of the Recreation Association's program is the intramural dormitory competition. Volleyball began the fall intramural season on campus as twenty-three dorm teams, each coached by students, entered the competition. Excitement grew as the championship approached. Each coach kept her fingers crossed for her team. After several weeks of dormitory wins and losses, an exciting championship game between Moore and Kirkland was played. Moore Hall's team came out victorious as the '62 champions.

MOORE'S VOLLEYBALL STRATEGY works again as a team member knocks the ball to the opponents who fail to return it.

The winter season of basketball intramurals began at the first of second semester. Some changes in rules went into effect this year to make a fast, new game of girls' basketball. The addition of roving players to the girls' game added speed to the game as well as more fun and excitement for the players and spectators. The intramural teams were divided into leagues as they vied for the championship. Fifteen dorms participated in the intramurals. The winner of the 1962 basketball intramurals was Moore Hall.

Woman's College Basketball Team Finishes With 3-1 Record

The Woman's College Varsity Basketball Team played a total of four games this season. Guilford College and High Point College participated in the round-robin tournament. W.C. and Guilford tied with a 3-1 record each at the end of the season.

The first game was played against Guilford at Coleman Gymnasium on the W.C. campus. Woman's College won by a score of 45 to 41. However, W.C. suffered defeat when they next played Guilford on the Guilford campus. For the third game of the season W.C. beat High Point. The last game was played at home again against High Point. W.C. won the game by the score of 51 to 10, handing High Point its worst defeat of the year.

The team was coached this year by Miss Ellen Griffin of the Physical Education Department. Players had to have a C-average the previous semester to be eligible, and the squad was limited to fifteen.

Departmental Clubs Provide Varied Activities For Members

In their programs the departmental clubs seek to supplement knowledge brought forth in the classroom and discuss matters for which there is no time in class. The monthly meetings provide an opportunity for students to associate more informally with others in the same major or sharing common interests. Faculty members as well as students are often active participants in the clubs relative to their field.

Spaghetti dinners in Elliott Hall, joint meetings and parties with clubs and groups from surrounding colleges, projects for the school and community, and holiday socials are among the varied activities of the departmental clubs.

WUNC-TV Gives Students Experience

In the original programming charter it is stated that: "All programs broadcast by WUNC-TV shall have a definable purpose; to bring the individual viewer toward informed adjustment to his society, to improve his cultural appreciation, to increase his range of valuable information, and to stimulate him to undertake worthwhile activities."

WUNC-TV operates under the same regulations as commercial stations, but is not allowed to advertise. W.C. students have gained valuable working experience there in the past.

Masqueraders Have Important Role In Play Production

The W.C. Theatre strives to present a variety of plays to an ever-increasing audience. This year marked the 40th Anniversary of the organization and witnessed many fine performances. An important highlight of the season was the fact that the Theatre received its second invitation in three years from the Department of Defense to make a tour under a program jointly sponsored by Defense, U.S.O. and the American Educational Theater Association.

Playing an important role in all the activities of the Theatre are the Masqueraders. This honorary organization states its purpose as being "to aid the Theatre of Woman's College in presenting the best possible plays while upholding good standards of educational theatre." Membership in the Masqueraders is not limited to drama majors but can be gained by anyone who fulfills the requirements.

Choir, Chorale Provide Musical Enjoyment

The Woman's College Choir adds a great deal of enjoyment to our college life. Made up of girls from all classes, it provided special music for occasions throughout the year, such as Founder's Day and graduation. The Choir also gave two concerts, one at Christmas and another at Easter. There was an air of anticipation and excitement concerning the Christmas Concert, for with this performance the holiday season officially opened at W.C. The Christmas spirit spread over the campus as the Choir sang traditional Christmas music. The Choir, directed by Mr. Richard Cox, is an asset to the college and the cultural community.

Organized in September of this year, the Chorale is the smallest of the three choral groups on the Woman's College campus. Also directed by Mr. Cox, it contains both undergraduate and graduate members. The group has been very active this year and has made appearances in Charleston, West Virginia, as well as in towns in North Carolina. It appeared before the North Carolina Music Educators' Conference in Greensboro in November.

Woman's College Glee Club Has Large Membership, Crowded Schedule

Directed by Mr. William DeVeny, the Woman's College Glee Club is a popular campus-wide musical organization. It has a membership of over one hundred students, drawn from many majors and all classes.

The Glee Club presented a number of concerts during the 1962-1963 school year. In addition to the Christmas Concert and the annual Spring Concert, the W.C. Glee Club combined forces with the Carolina Glee Club to present a joint concert during Carolina's Parents' Weekend and to produce the operetta "Down in the Valley." Mixers with the glee clubs from other schools were a bright spot of this musical organization's calendar.

The De-ettes, a small group composed of members of the Glee Club, was active this year in singing for campus affairs and in the dormitories. Members of the De-ettes are Genie Bidly, Sue Garrison, Suzanne Lane, Pam Porter, Judy Renfro, and Lynn Torpy.

Greensboro Orchestra Represents College-Community Effort

The Greensboro Orchestra, conducted by Mr. George W. Dickieson, is a college-community organization. The enterprise has been a co-operative effort on the part of the Woman's College, the Public School System of Greensboro, and interested citizens in the community. The City of Greensboro and the Woman's College are fortunate in having a symphony orchestra of such high caliber; few cities in the United States can claim this distinction.

Each year this organization presents us with concerts and various performances, giving each student an opportunity to become aware of and appreciate the best in the field of music.

Woman's College Band Grows, Becomes First Co-ed Activity

The Woman's College Band, under the direction of Dr. Harold T. Luce, has the distinction of being the first coed activity at Woman's College. The band is made up of music and non-music majors from Woman's College, students from surrounding colleges, city high schools, and even junior high schools. The members find the music played both interesting and challenging as is indicated by the fact that the group is larger this year than in the past.

The band had its annual Fall Concert in November. Highlights were the Trumpet Trio and the Flute Trio. They also gave a concert at Page High School in November. The annual joint concert with the Davidson College Band was given in May.

AN AIR OF REVERENCE reigns in the candlelight atmosphere of the Moravian love feast held in the gameroom of Elliott Hall.

Moravian Love Feast Is One Of Year's Religious Highlights

The religious groups on campus are active ones. Those that meet weekly serve suppers before their programs. Typical programs include speakers, films, and panel discussions, as well as worship.

In October the Inter-Faith Council brought to campus an outstanding production by the Everyman Players of the "Book of Job." One of the most impressive ceremonies of the year was the Moravian love feast at Christmas. In February Canterbury Club sponsored a film, "Cry, The Beloved Country," for the campus. Westminster Fellowship was host in March to the Presbyterian Religious Drama Team who presented a religious drama, "The Sign of Jonah."

PASSING AROUND BUNS and hot coffee is one of the well-known traditions of the Moravian service held at Christmas time.

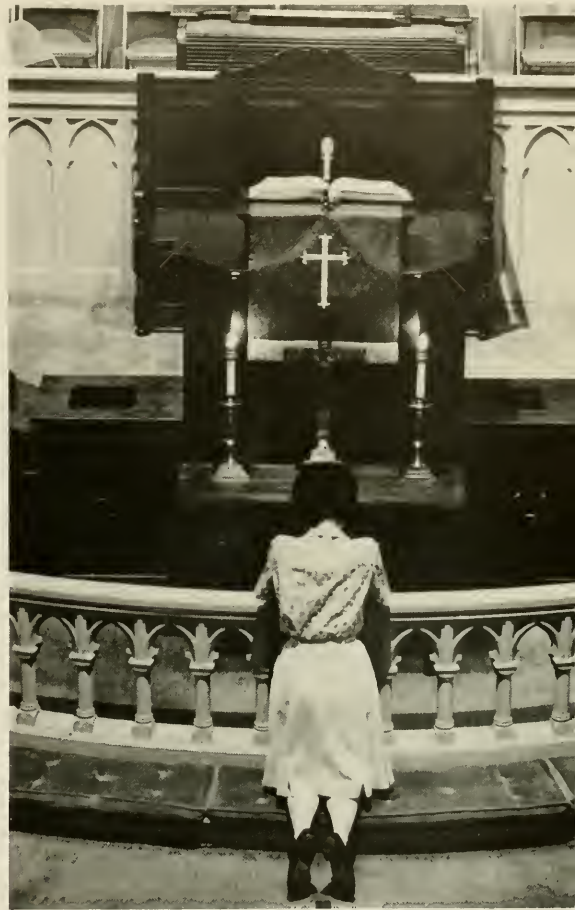

STUDENTS ATTENDING the love feast hold lighted candles, their only source of light, as they sing Christmas songs.

HOT DOGS ARE ON the menu at Wesley. Members, glad to be eating away from the dining hall, eagerly fill their plates.

IN THE SPACIOUS Baptist Student Center, members relax to read, talk, and watch TV before the evening program begins.

Westminster Fellowship

After having supper together every Friday night, the girls of Westminster Fellowship participate in a 15-minute worship program. The program which followed usually featured a visiting speaker or panel of speakers. The Presbyterian House also offered opportunity for spiritual growth through study groups. These study groups searched for the Christian way of life in the involvement of our world today.

Wesley Foundation

Meeting weekly in College Place Methodist Church for supper, the Wesley Foundation afforded W.C. students the opportunity to worship, study and have recreation and fellowship with other Christians every Friday night. The programs were usually led by some outstanding person in the field concerning the program. Among Wesley programs this year were films, talks on "History of Cartoons" and on "Japanese Art."

Lutheran Students Association And Gamma Delta

Twice a month Gamma Delta and L.S.A. met jointly. Typical meetings included a fifteen minute fellowship period with refreshments. This was followed by the necessary business, a devotional and programs of various sorts: speakers, movies, buzz groups, skits, and panel discussions. Special events during the year were the retreat with the L.S.A.'s from State, Duke, and Carolina; the Freshmen Welcome-Dinner; and the annual spring convention, Little Ashram.

This year they had a big-little sisters program and mixers with Chapel Hill, Duke and N. C. State.

Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship

As an interdenominational student led organization the I.V.C.F. is open to everyone. There are advisors who guide the group and help when needed. They had two conferences this year — in the fall and also in the spring. Students from I.V. chapters from North Carolina and South Carolina came and had fellowship together through speakers, Bible studies, discussion groups, prayer groups, and recreation.

Baptist Student Union

Weekly forums were held at the B.S.U. House following a supper every Friday night. "The Protestant Ecumenical Movement" and "Religion in the Space Age" were among the topics for the forums. Speakers included ministers, professors, and visitors from Southern Seminary. Other highlights included their fall state convention, spring leadership conference, summer missions programs, socials with other colleges, and pre-holiday worship services.

Canterbury Club

Services are offered by St. Mary's to the Episcopal students, as well as other interested W.C. students. They had weekly services of Holy Communion Wednesdays and Sundays, followed by breakfast. Their Inquirer's classes dealt primarily with the Anglican Communion. There were opportunities to attend various church conferences with neighboring college students and to teach Sunday school at the home for retarded children.

RELIGIOUS LIFE

United Campus Christian Fellowship

On the first and third Wednesdays of each month the members of this organization met for informal meetings, which featured a guest speaker. They planned several projects for the year, for example, their Christmas Party for the underprivileged children here in Greensboro. They also visited the Eastern Star Home for the Aged.

Newman Club

Weekly, the Newman Club met with their advisor who led their discussions. Topics concerned their faith and church as compared with their intellectual advancement as college students.

Father McCue celebrated Mass with them the first Friday of every month and on certain holidays. Non-Catholics were always welcomed.

THE BOOK OF JOB Presented Through Inter-Faith Council

The co-ordinating body of religious activities on campus is the Inter-Faith Council, composed of representatives of the various religious groups. Serving as president of the various religious groups. Serving as president for 1962-1963 has been Mary Ida Hodge. Co-ordinator of religious activities, Dean Taylor, is advisor to the Council.

Various programs were carried out through the year in the form of faculty lectures and readings from the Bible, both presented in Elliott Hall. The dormitory vespers program is a direct means of communication between the Council and the students. A special feature of the year was the October presentation by the Everyman Players of The Book of Job. The unusual costuming with the mosaic facial features made the play quite memorable. Also, during the Easter season, a sunrise service was held. Stimulating and strengthening the spiritual life of the students — this is Inter-Faith Council.

MARY IDA HODGE, President, and Miss Katherine Taylor, Religious Co-ordinator, ably direct the Inter-Faith Council.

About The Pine Needles

As you close the 1963 Pine Needles, we hope you have read it and enjoyed it. Many changes were brought about this year to give what we consider a better portrayal of Woman's College.

An academic section of sixteen pages was included, to place accent upon the outstanding features of our academic institution, mentioning some contributions of our faculty in research and professional areas. We were fortunate to be able to include formal portraits of the faculty members. Although Woman's College is a large school, the tie between students and faculty is great.

Student life was greatly expanded in the '63 Pine Needles. This is one area of campus life that never fails to be interesting. We tried to cover the major campus events of the year, such as registration, Hats Off Day, Junior Show, and graduation, to name a few, as well as the daily ones.

The book was increased twelve pages this year, and space throughout was reapportioned to enable us to include more of the activities of the Recreation Association, the departmental clubs, the religious groups, and other organizations which have been neglected in the past.

An increased effort has been made this year to write interesting and informative copy. We have included many more write-ups than in the past. The material merits reading; give it a try. Use of feature heads, rather than label heads, is another, we feel, successful change in the book.

Many thanks go to the staff members of the Pine Needles:

Brenda Meadows — one of the most valuable staff members, who helped enthusiastically on other sections, particularly student life, when her own was complete.

Virginia Mims — for her interest and conscientiousness in doing her job well, for helping willingly with last minute problems.

Janet Starnes — who spent many hours and devoted much thought toward getting good pictures for the academic section. Janet also wrote much of the copy for this section.

Jo Ippolito — for the expedience with which she handled the student life section. Jo had the largest section in the book, in that it was not sub-divided among other editors, and did a beautiful job with pictures of the class beauties and special events, as well as campus life.

Brenda Potter — to whom credit for the fine opening section may be given. This section was developed around the familiar words of the Senior Class song.

Judy Wrape and her copy staff — for their co-operation and efficiency in writing more copy and heads than we have had in any other recent Pine Needles: Minta Hobbs—who worked diligently during a tight schedule with the clubs, honoraries, and religious groups; Janice Hawkins — who devoted uncountable hours to compiling a complete index; Ida Edwards, Celia Donaldson, Mary Alice Edson, Lydia Leonhardt, Pat Russell, Anne Hinnant, Cary Clarke, Alice Davenport, Jean Neuland, Judy Boch, Mary Ann Crocker, Phyllis Bostic, Nancy Hefner, Ellen Mayo, and the many staff assistants—who likewise devoted much time in working on the '63 Pine Needles.

A special note of thanks goes also to:

Mr. Price Coursey — from Charlotte Engraving Company, who, as "advisor," spent so many faithful hours helping us; Mr. Carol Martin and Mr. Malcolm Miller — of Martin's Studio, who were so gracious and co-operative in taking pictures at all hours of the day and night; Mr. E. L. Thomas — who also came over most willingly at any time to photograph campus events; Mr. Frank Fleming—of Washburn Printing Company; Mr. A. F. Smith and Mr. Harrison Scott — of Smith Studios; and Mr. Albert Wilkinson — from the News Bureau. We could hardly have managed without their valuable assistance.

The '63 Pine Needles represents a lot of hard work by a great many people. The staff hopes you, the student body, thoroughly enjoy it. We have tried to present you and the '62-'63 year at Woman's College as you have lived it.

LINDA NELSON, Editor
